Army Lieutenant Defends Tough Training Tricks

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—The court-martial of a 24-year-old Army officer charged with mistreating Camp Gordon trainees moved into its final stages today before a 10-man trial board.

Second Lt. Charles C. Anderson testified Thursday he ordered tough physical exercises for his men as punishment.

So far his defense has rested largely on a position that trainees were not harmed physically or mentally by his disciplinary measures.

The lieutenant has been accused of ordering a man strung up by his ankles, of having another trainee buried in dirt and of other actions while his company was on a training bivouac last month.

Anderson, a veteran of the Korean War, said his company was "slovenly" when he took over. He said he took tough disciplinary action to shape it up.

He joined Company A on Oct. 11, soon after graduating from officer candidate school at Ft. Benning. He said he found his men in dirty uniforms with shoes unshined and blouses untidy.

He said many of them answered "yeah" and "un-huh" instead of saying "sir" to him.

His senior officers have testified that the company's appearance improved after Anderson took over.

Censure Hearing May Never Get Showdown Verdict On McCarthy

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators marking time in an 11-day recess while Sen. McCarthy is treated for an elbow injury disagreed sharply today on whether they ever will reach a showdown on censuring him.

The Senate voted 76-2 Thursday with Senators Fulbright (D-Ark.) and Lehman (D, Lib-N.Y.) shouting "No!" to adjourn until Nov. 29. They had heard advice of doctors that it will take that long to treat "traumatic bursitis" said to have developed in McCarthy's right arm.

Deadline Dec. 24

The adjournment brought to an abrupt halt debate on a resolution to censure McCarthy for alleged contemptuous treatment of a Senate elections subcommittee and "repeated abuse" of Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, a witness before McCarthy's Senate investigation subcommittee.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, said there is "no doubt in my mind that the issue will be resolved" by a vote on the censure resolution before a midnight, Dec. 24, adjournment.

Fulbright, one of three senators who joined in bringing 46 overlapping original charges against McCarthy, disagreed.

"I doubt very seriously that we will ever be able to get the censure resolution to a vote," he said. "We certainly will not be able to do it without the full cooperation of the Republican leadership if around-the-clock sessions are necessary."

No Filibuster Expected

Knowland said he would meet any filibuster threat if and when it arose, but predicted there would be none.

Fulbright had tried to get an agreement to vote by Dec. 20, but Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.), a McCarthy supporter, killed the move with an objection.

Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore), said, "Senators Dirksen and Jenner have demonstrated by their tactics they head a group that wants to see this thing kept from a vote."

When Dirksen (R-Ill.) was asked by reporters if he had any such aim, he replied:

"Goodness me, no. Nothing could be farther from the fact. Everybody is anxious to get through with this."

Dirksen told the Senate Thursday that McCarthy, when he has a chance to recover from his injury, will "be back here to defend himself with his chin up."

The Senate's decision to call off its debate temporarily was taken on the advice of Dr. George Calver, Capitol physician. Calver said "permanent injury" could result to McCarthy's arm—hurt when an enthusiastic handshaker pushed his elbow into a glass table top at Milwaukee last weekend—if the full course of treatment were not followed.

SENT TO SWEDEN—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme allied commander in Europe, is in Norway to confer with top defense officials of Norway and NATO's northern headquarters. He will be received by King Haakon VII.

Russia Reaches Agreement With Western Powers

By TOM HOGUE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—With Russian approval virtually certain, the United States and its atomic allies pressed for a vote today on their compromise plan to promote President Eisenhower's atom-for-peace program. Diplomats predicted unanimous assent.

The U.N.'s 60-nation Political Committee, in recess until late today to let members consult their governments, hoped to reach a ballot tonight on the seven-power resolution to set up an international atomic agency.

Bid For Red China?

U.S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., presented the revised proposal Thursday with a plea for unanimous support.

Virtual agreement between Russia and the West was reached after a week of closed-door bargaining between Lodge and Soviet Chief Delegate Andrei Vishinsky. Vishinsky told the Western sponsors Thursday he approved of the revised plan on all but one point. Informed sources said this difference would not stand in the way of final Soviet approval.

Vishinsky opposed a Western provision to invite only members of the U.N. and its specialized agencies to the proposed scientific conference on peaceful uses of atomic energy. Apparently seeking a bid for Red China, Vishinsky argued that there should be no restrictions on the invitation list.

Conference Next Summer

The resolution:

1. Provides that the scientific conference be held next summer.
2. Suggests that as soon as the international atomic agency is set up, it negotiate an appropriate agreement with the U.N. The original resolution called for making it a specialized U.N. Agency, but the Russians objected and called for it to be placed under the Security Council.
3. Suggests that negotiations on the agency continue, as recommended by Russia.

Bomber Warning Net Is U.S. Task

By ELTON C. GAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has assumed the job of building the "distant early warning" line of radar stations along the Canadian-Alaskan rim of the continent.

An announcement made simultaneously today in Washington and Ottawa said the two governments have agreed:

1. "To proceed with the construction" of the perimeter warning net for enemy bombers, whose cost is unofficially estimated at about one billion dollars.
2. That "although both Canada and the United States will participate in the project, responsibility for the work of construction and installation should be vested in the United States."

In answer to questions, Defense Department officials said sufficient money is available in the current budget to go ahead with the project and that additional money will be requested in the next budget.

Nobody Knows Who Shook Joe's Hand So Hard

WASHINGTON (AP)—Who was it who shook Sen. McCarthy's hand so vigorously it put him in the hospital?

With the possible exception of McCarthy, who could not be reached, no one in Washington seemed to know.

And efforts to run down the identity of the overzealous admirer in Milwaukee, where the incident occurred, were fruitless.

Whoever it was in effect tied up the United States Senate for 11 days. The Senate voted Thursday to recess until Nov. 29 its debate on proposed censure of McCarthy.

It did so after the Capitol physician Dr. George Calver submitted a report saying treatments would keep McCarthy in the hospital that long, and that if he left it sooner there might be permanent damage. Calver said "traumatic bursitis" had developed and that McCarthy's elbow would have to be in a splint for five days.

Mrs. Mary Driscoll, McCarthy's secretary, has said his right elbow got banged when someone shook hands with him last Saturday night at a testimonial dinner. She said his elbow was forced back against a table and cut on the glass top.

Asked today who the handshaker was, she said she doesn't know and doubted whether McCarthy does.

Two Mentioned For Bushnell's High Court Job

LANSING (AP)—Two names took precedence today in speculation for appointment to the Michigan Supreme Court, following Justice George E. Bushnell's announcement he would retire Dec. 31.

The capital guessed that former Justice Clark J. Adams of Pontiac or Talbot Smith of Ann Arbor were the most likely choices.

Gov. Williams, who will fill the vacancy, was out of the State. There was no confirmation of the rumors.

Politicians put Adams' name at the head of the list because he had previously held the post by the governor's appointment. He was defeated when he was an election candidate to fill the unexpired term.

However, insiders said Adams may be reluctant to again abandon his private practice of law and risk the uncertainties of politics.

Smith, a member of the State Corrections Commission and prominent in Williams' previous recount battles, reportedly has been marked by the governor for political advancement.

Smith reportedly declined to be a candidate for attorney general on the fall Democratic slate so that he could remain free for a Supreme Court vacancy if one occurred.

Justice Bushnell, 67, notified the governor Thursday he was applying for retirement Dec. 31. He has served 21 years on the bench.

He will devote his full time to his newly-elected post of sovereign grand commander of the Supreme Council, 33rd degree Scottish Rite for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction.

Naples Cracks Down On Lucky Luciano, New York Vice King

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—A Naples "admonition board" today ordered deported New York vice king Charles (Lucky) Luciano to stay off the streets from dusk to dawn for the next two years.

The board's crackdown on the onetime New York racket boss came in response to allegations that he is a social menace, a threat to law enforcement, a threat to U. S. forces in Naples and "a man capable of directing the narcotics traffic from Italy to the United States."

Reunited With Wife After 5 Years; Field Ducks Press In Zurich

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)—Hermann Field arrived in Zurich today for a reunion with his wife, Katy. He has not seen her since his imprisonment in Communist Poland five years ago.

Both Field's wife and sister, Dr. Elsie Field of Urbana, Ill., were in Zurich to meet the man who was set free by the Communists three weeks ago.

The air of mystery and hush-hush which has surrounded the case of Hermann and other members of his family was present again at his arrival on a Swiss plane from Prague.

Newsmen Avoided

Field was met by Swiss police who whisked him off to the customs office in the Airport Administration Building. They barred newsmen and photographers from approaching the plane, and for a while the identity of the arrival could not be fixed.

Police said they had been ordered by the government's political department to ban reporters from the area around the plane. The airport manager said the Swiss were acting at the request of U.S. Ambassador Frances E. Willis.

Tennessee Red Boss Arrested

MEMPHIA, Tenn. (AP)—Junius Irving Scales, whom the FBI said has been running the Communist party's activities in Tennessee and the Carolinas for more than three years, was arrested here Thursday night.

Federal agents arrested the 34-year-old Scales on a warrant sworn out at Wilkesboro, N.C., under the Smith Act. This act outlaws any conspiracy to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the U.S. government.

J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, said Scales, also known as Joe Shields, has been active in the party in North and South Carolina since 1946.

Scales did not resist when he was arrested on a residential street corner. The FBI here declined further comment.

Hoover said the long hunt for Scales began when he disappeared from his home at Carboro, N.C., Oct. 6, 1951. If convicted, Scales could be jailed for 10 years, fined $10,000 or both.

At a hearing before a U.S. commissioner, bond was set at $100,000 over Scales' protest.

Scales is a grandson of a former North Carolina governor, A. M. Scales.

Nipple Chokes Baby

CHICAGO (AP)—A 6-month-old baby, Nancy Schmaedeke, swallowed the nipple of her nursing bottle Thursday night and died in her mother's arms enroute to a hospital.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schmaedeke Jr., said they heard Nancy choking in her crib and upon investigating Mrs. Schmaedeke felt the nipple lodge in the baby's throat. The mother said she was unable to remove it.

Fined For Bomb

DETROIT (AP)—Victor Altherr, 26, of Detroit, was fined $50 and given six months probation by Recorder's Criminal Judge George Murphy Thursday for possession of a homemade bomb during the Square D Co. strike last September.

Hermann's wife and sister were making every effort to avoid newspapermen. In this they had the full cooperation of authorities.

Field, the former Cleveland architect, flew unaccompanied into Zurich. About 20 minutes after he arrived his sister, Elsie, was brought to the airport in a police car. Apparently his wife was also in the building but police kept reporters from observing her.

Soviets Keep Trying To Create Turmoil, AP Writers Report

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Associated Press writers back from Russia and Japan warned today the Kremlin was directing a skillful propaganda campaign everywhere in the free world designed to create turmoil and poison minds against Americans.

They told the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. meeting the United States must maintain eternal vigilance to keep these campaigns from succeeding.

Robert Euston, AP chief of bureau for Japan and Korea, said the big plum sought by the Soviets in the Far East was Japan and its industries, but that the Communists feared there were unlikely to succeed.

Japan Important Link

He said loss of Japan to the Communists would be an "unparalleled tragedy" and could "tip the scales of world power against us for all times."

William L. Ryan, AP's foreign news analyst who spent some time in Moscow, said the United States couldn't match maneuverability of the Russians, but that "we hope to beat them by exposing them to as much glare as we can bring to bear upon them."

Euston and Ryan spoke during a foreign news workshop session. Euston said strong forces were at work to keep Japan out of the clutches of communism.

"One is Japan's own way of life which is so dead set against everything communism stands for," he said.

"Another is the historic achievement of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, whose victory without vindictiveness looms greater with every passing year as a triumph of humanity and wisdom."

Can't Risk War

"And a third is that the United States, after getting burned in China and Korea and in Indochina, is—or should be—ready to take instant and decisive action against Communist threats in Japan."

Euston said that the Communists couldn't hope to seize control of Japan by violent means and had "deliberately and with astonishing skill set about to corrupt and poison the minds of the Japanese people against America and the Americans."

Ryan said that in his opinion the Soviet Union fears war at present, and that when things get too hot in any area, it probably will continue to pull in its horns, as it has been doing.

"The reason is that Moscow is unready for such risks, either in terms of its domestic economy or its race for parity with the United States, in which it is still years behind," he said.

Youth Sets Big Baltimore Fire

BALTIMORE (AP)—Alexander Partlow, 19, pleaded innocent to arson Thursday, but police said he had admitted touching off Tuesday night's million dollar blaze in South Baltimore.

The Negro youth was arraigned on the arson charge before Magistrate Simon Schonfield and was held without bail for grand jury action.

The fire burned out an entire block of homes and business places, injured 10 firemen and left 100 homeless. His grandmother's house was destroyed.

Sgt. Thomas Bryan said Partlow was convicted five years ago of setting fire to the same lumber yard where the Tuesday night conflagration broke out. Sentenced as a juvenile offender, he was released about a year ago.

Spaulding was arrested at Gladstone last Sunday after he landed a single-engine Beechcraft plane taken from its parking place in front of a Lear, Inc., hangar at Kent County Airport.

Spaulding was intercepted on his flight by Air Force jet planes but continued on course despite their attempts to persuade him to land.

Accident Ruled Out In Gunfire Death Of Ironwood Woman, 38

(By The Associated Press)

Gunfire deaths among Michigan deer hunters remained unchanged at four today as the state went into its fifth day of the big game season.

But Gogebic County Prosecutor Theodore G. Albert said Thursday he had ruled out the possibility of accident in the shooting of Mrs. Betty Wettberg, 38, of Ironwood—one of the gunfire victims. Albert said, however, he had found no motive for either suicide or murder.

At and Cadillac 15-year-old Mike Stevens has been ordered to stand trial for the fatal shooting of Hugh Flake, 68, retired Carsonville farmer.

Flake was shot three times in the back of the neck and head Tuesday. Probate Judge Elmer Sherwood of Kalkaska County waived juvenile jurisdiction over Stevens at a hearing in Cadillac Thursday to permit the youth's being tried as an adult in the slaying.

Mrs. Wettberg was found shot to death Tuesday in a woods not far from her home. Her shotgun and a discharged shell were found near the body.

Albert said tests being made at the state police crime laboratory at Lansing may help to clear up the mystery of Mrs. Wettberg's death. Albert said he expects a report in about a week.

He said several persons, including Mrs. Wettberg's husband, John, have volunteered to take lie detector tests. The tests will be given in Marquette Saturday.

Conservation men said the Upper Peninsula reports a slightly larger influx of hunters and a better kill than last year.

Fairgrounds Bids For Olympic Site

DETROIT (AP)—The Michigan State Fair Board wants the State Fair Grounds considered as a site for the 1960 Olympic Games—if the international sports event is held in Detroit that year.

The board Thursday praised Frederick C. Matthaei, Detroit industrialist, for his work in promoting Detroit before a U. S. Olympic screening committee in Chicago this week. The committee picked Detroit to represent the United States in the international bidding for the site this summer at Paris.

In other action the board set Dec. 16 for the selection of a new fair manager to succeed James M. Hare, newly elected secretary of state. Hare held the $9,000-a-year post for three years.

The board set Sept. 2 through Sept. 11 as dates for next year's State Fair.

A commentator assured viewers that Barbara's bodice was supported by bone stiffening and said, "I do not think there were any dreadful revelations."

Combined Armory, Civic Building Sought By City

Possibility of combining a $350,000 National Guard armory and a civic recreation building in Escanaba was discussed last night by the Escanaba City Council, with the Council expressing the hope that such a joint project can be accomplished.

The Council was informed in a letter from Lt. Col. Leonard C. Ward, commanding officer of the 107th Engineer Battalion, Michigan National Guard, that $350,000 has been approved for an armory for Company C in Escanaba.

Construction has been scheduled for 1959-60, but this may be advanced and the project given a higher priority if there are local contributions of a site, cash and services, the Council was advised. Local contributions should approximate 25 per cent of the total armory cost.

Have Bonitas Funds
City Manager A. V. Aronson advised the Council that he had written National Guard authorities to inquire if recreational facilities could be included in planning the building and site.

He said that if the city can plan to combine recreational use of the building and area by the public, then the city water tank area would be suitable. The area is sufficiently large and is centrally located in the community.

Escanaba has $100,000 in funds for recreation bequeathed the city by the late Catherine Bonitas, and this could be used to assist in defraying cost of recreational facilities in the building. The city manager said it is his understanding the National Guard would use the armory building one night each week.

Until information is received concerning the National Guard's attitude toward combined armory and recreational facilities, the Council will take no further action.

No Fund Gifts
In other business the Council received a communication from Police Officers Lawrence Johnson and Robert Curran expressing their appreciation for the opportunity to attend basic police training at Michigan State College.

A dance permit was approved to be issued by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission to Leo Alperovitz and Chester White, proprietor of Little Mike's tavern.

Adopted a motion establishing as the policy of the Council not to make budget appropriations for charitable and service organizations. Such organizations should be supported by individual contributions, not tax money, it was held.

Approved a final payment of $5,000 to the Pierson Construction Company for the $842,127 water filtration plant completed nearly two years ago.

Number of Hunters Crossing Straits Nears Normal

ST. IGNACE—A total of 22,087 vehicles crossed the Straits during the five-day period preceding the opening day of the deer hunting season, according to unofficial figures released by the Michigan State Highway Department.

This was an increase of only 29 over last year's figures of 22,058. The day of heaviest traffic this year was Friday, Nov. 12 when 6,579 vehicles crossed the Straits. Heaviest day of traffic in 1953 was Nov. 13, on which the traffic figure northward was 7,439.

Passenger traffic for the six-day period shows a decrease over that for last year. The 1954 figure was 49,540 and the 1953 figure, 49,603.

On Nov. 15, 24 deer were taken south across the Straits, compared to 20 on the same day in 1953. On Nov. 16, 142 deer were taken south, compared to 125 on Nov. 16 1953.

Four bear were also taken across the Straits during the first two days of the season.

Alger Pioneer Struck By Car, Instantly Killed

MUNISING—Robert Franklin Powell, 68-year-old recluse who lived at Powell's Point, was instantly killed about 5:30 p. m. Thursday when struck by a car driven by John A. Honigisto, 64, Deerton. The accident occurred on M-28, about 1.5 miles west of Munising near the city pumping station.

Honigisto was driving west and Powell was walking east on the north side of the road, pulling a small wagon. Honigisto told state and city police, who investigated, that he did not see Powell until immediately before hitting him. Honigisto said he had just dimmed his lights for an oncoming car before the accident happened. Powell was dragged 638 feet down the highway.

The deceased was a member of one of Munising's pioneer families, and the point where he lived was named after the family.

He was born Sept. 26, 1886 in Alma, Wash., and lived in this district 64 years.

City Will Sell Industrial Site

Escanaba City Council, by a four to one vote, last night approved a motion to advertise for sale a parcel of city-owned land on the east side of US-2-41 just north of the C&NW Railway overpass.

The "No" vote was cast by Councilman Edward J. Cox, who said that he believes the area should be held intact until a survey of the area's potential use, in view of the St. Lawrence Seaway development, has been completed. Councilman Cox urged that the city have such a survey made and asked delay on sale of the land meanwhile.

The parcel of land, with 200 feet of frontage on the highway and extending eastward 1100 feet, has been sought by Ben Yagodzinski of Escanaba. Yagodzinski would like to enlarge a sawmill operation and set up a building material retail outlet.

Sale of the land was recommended to the City Council by the Escanaba Planning Commission. Yagodzinski advised the Planning Commission that he expects to employ 25 or 30, possibly 50 persons when his business is enlarged. He said he hopes to begin construction there next spring.

By Council motion the city would advertise the land for sale and sell to the highest bidder.

In other business the Council referred to the electric department bids from 13 firms to supply the city with electric transformers. The bids will be analyzed and a report made at next meeting.

In a reconsideration of gravel bids, the Council authorized City Manager A. V. Aronson to request Champion Inc., Iron Mountain, to eliminate itself from consideration. If it fails to do so the Council will reject all bids and readvertise.

Phil Beauvais, City Manager 25 Years, To Receive Honors

ALLEGAN (AP)—They said Phillip H. Beauvais, Allegan city manager, "wouldn't last two months" at the job.

That was seven years ago. The skeptics have long since become admirers. "He may be a rugged individualist, but he gets things done," they say.

Beauvais will receive international honors in St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 8 as the only active city manager with 25 years service. Before Allegan, he held similar posts at Manistee, Royal Oak, Manistique and Alma.

Born in Muskegon
Between times, from 1931 to 1936, he headed an engineering firm which designed and constructed roads through the Western Michigan dunes, built the resort parking oval and beach at Saugatuck and the waterworks at Northport and Bear Lake.

Beauvais was born in Muskegon. His father, who began in Michigan as a timber cruiser, turned to deep sea diving and undertook the construction of Muskegon's first pier.

The Allegan city manager graduated from Muskegon High school in 1904. He joined the Army Corps of Engineers three years after as a diver on harbor projects at Michigan City, St. Joseph and South Haven.

He was promoted to engineer in 1912 to head construction on the first sections of the Manistee breakwater. In 1916 he left the corps and took a partnership with a construction firm which built the final sections.

Allegan Modernized
Beauvais stayed on when the job was completed and was appointed Manistee city manager in 1918. At that time, he says, there were only 27 city managers in the United States and Canada. None of the others are living today.

In retrospect on his career as a pioneering city manager, Beauvais feels it was a "toss-up" between Allegan and Royal Oak "as the greatest challenge."

"At Royal Oak we started from scratch, everything needed doing," he says. Beauvais says he found Allegan an older city with utilities and public works that had "just grew, like Topsy."

During the past seven years he has supervised the rebuilding of Allegan's waterworks, added to electric power facilities and modernized all city departments.

MIYAMA, Japan. (AP)—This remote central Japan village of 300 persons is basking in prosperity—all because its citizens got tired of sitting around in the dark.

Disgusted with frequent power blackouts, villagers sold some farm land three years ago and built a power plant. It produced surplus power, so they built a paper mill.

Residents own so many farm and home electric gadgets that Miyama is called the "Electric Village." Its fame has attracted as visitors United Nations experts and a Cabinet minister from India.

Short Course In Police Work Taken By Sgt. Corcoran

Joseph Corcoran, police sergeant of Escanaba, received advanced training and new ideas in the administration of a local police department during a week-long course at Michigan State College. He was one of 26 police officers attending the command officers training course, sponsored by the M.S.C. Department of Police Administration and Continuing Education Service and the Michigan Police Academy.

College professors, state officials and outstanding chiefs of police from Michigan communities served on the special faculty. The lectures covered such topics as "Policing—A Human Relations Activity," "Giving Orders Effectively," "Maintaining Discipline," "Merit Rating Systems," "Use of Records and Reports," and "Foundations of Leadership."

The 'students' were sincerely interested in the lectures and they contributed many ideas about tested programs used in their communities. Many of them observed some of the M.S.C. Department of Police Administration courses and State Police operations," reports Harold Haun, co-ordinator of the police training program carried on by the Continuing Education Service.

This was one of eight different short-courses offered for police officers by Michigan State College, in co-operation with various police and educational institutions.

Bad Hearts Fixed In Amazing Ways

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Faulty human hearts are being repaired in such amazing new ways that there is optimism that someday most heart defects can be repaired.

This was one opinion expressed today as leading surgeons summed up new life and health-saving measures described in a week-long clinical session of the American College of Surgeons.

New techniques make it possible to fix numerous lethal defects in hearts of babies and adults, said Dr. Harris B. Shumacker Jr., of Indianapolis.

One killer is sudden blowouts of arteries. Artery walls well and burst like inner tubes.

Pieces of arteries borrowed from dead persons are substituting for the diseased sections of living arteries, tubes made of rolled up sections of nylon, dacron or other fabrics, coated with plastic chemicals, are taking the place of lengths of bad arteries or veins.

Hearts of children born with heart defects are being opened up and laid bare—free of pulsing blood—so surgeons can see while they repair the troubles.

Three methods are being used to do this, Shumacker said.

One is by putting humans under a bit of deep freeze, to lower their temperature and reduce the need for oxygen-carrying blood flow to the brain for many precious minutes.

Another is use of mechanical heart-lung machines. A third is hooking the child to the veins and arteries of a parent or other volunteer, so that his blood stream can put the child's heart on a temporary holiday for half an hour or more while the hole or bad valve or other trouble is remedied.

An important message to the citizens of Escanaba

The following is a reprint of a message broadcast over Station WDBC at 8 p. m. Nov. 17 and Station WESK at 6:15 p. m. Nov. 18, and is reprinted here by the Greater Escanaba Committee.

TONIGHT we would like to look into the proposal made by the Alger-Delta Cooperative Electric Association (Cooperative) to provide what is referred to as "public power" for the City of Escanaba. Alger-Delta proposes to supply power from a generating plant financed by a loan from the Rural Electrification Administration, REA, for the information of those who do not know, is a department of the Federal Government.

Other terms of the proposal include the offer to supply the City with, and I quote: "excess capacity electric power for a period of 10 years at a rate whose average cost during the contract period would be an estimated 1.06c per kilowatt-hour," unquote. Under the terms of the agreement, the City would retain its distribution system. However, no City taxes would be paid under the proposed agreement. Instead, taxes would be refunded to the Cooperative to attain the low power rate.

On the surface of it, this proposal might be attractive to some citizens in Escanaba. However, the Rural Electrification Administration was not created to make a power supply available to urban communities. In fact, the law contains a specific provision prohibiting the REA from direct expenditures involving service to communities in excess of fifteen hundred people.

In order to circumvent this provision, the Alger-Delta Cooperative Association must build a plant for the purpose of serving the City of Escanaba which would come under the category of "surplus" or "excess" power. Under the law, surplus or excess power can be sold to available customers and does not come under the limitation of fifteen hundred people. Certainly, Escanaba does not wish to become the "tail" on "this kite" of excess power.

In the Cooperative setup proposed for Escanaba, the entire City of Escanaba would have only one vote. This means that although Escanaba would be the biggest customer by far, its influence would be no more than that of the smallest number of the Cooperative.

Therefore, in purchasing surplus power, Escanaba would be dependent for its power supply upon an organization whose only obligation would be to furnish it power IF, AS and WHEN it was available and AFTER the needs of its other customers were taken care of.

The load growth which the Alger-Delta Cooperative Association projected clearly shows that within a very few years — certainly no later than 1958 — there will not be a sufficient amount of surplus power available for Escanaba. Alger-Delta Cooperative Electric Association's answer to this is that when the time comes for them to make arrangements for additional power, the City would be able to install its own plant adjacent to that of the Cooperative, which means that, actually, by the time the Cooperative plant is put into operation, Escanaba would be faced with the same problem it faces today — and that is — a lack of sufficient electric power to offer any industry which wanted to locate here.

This matter of an adequate, firm source of electric energy is, therefore, doubly important in the light of provisions for future expansion.

The Greater Escanaba Committee is convinced that the City should not place its future in jeopardy by agreeing to the Cooperative proposal. In the first place, the City would have absolutely nothing to say about the Cooperative-owned and operated operation. Its one vote could and would be a "lonely voice" in the Cooperative membership. Secondly, industry does not care to do business in a community on the basis of surplus or excess power. Another point is the fact that the Cooperative does not come under the jurisdiction of the Michigan Public Service Commission. The rules and laws under which it was created are Federal — and are Federally supervised.

Here in Escanaba we have already seen a public expression of industrial opinion on the subject of Government operation of a power business. One of the officers of one of our larger plants urged the City to keep Government out of the power industry in this area. He referred to Government's entry into power business as "inefficient and harmful to one of this nation's basic industries" and stated that he personally would be more favorable toward expanding his industry in Escanaba if the City didn't use public power.

At the same time, this executive stated that the only thing that was delaying expansion of this manufacturing plant was the matter of power. Nothing could be done insofar as expansion was concerned until the plant had reasonable assurance of enough power to do business.

These are but a few basic reasons why the Greater Escanaba Committee is opposed to the City entering into an agreement for public power. They are good logical reasons which everyone can understand. However, you may still have a few questions in your own mind about this matter. The Greater Escanaba Committee would greatly appreciate it if you would present these questions to it for answer on future broadcasts.

The Committee headed by Mr. Asp urges you to give careful consideration to the power problem. Remember, its solution is the key to the future of Escanaba.

The Greater Escanaba Committee cordially invites you to participate in its crusade to help make Escanaba an even better place in which to live. All you have to do is to send your name to the Greater Escanaba Committee in care of the station to which you are listening.

This program is being put on by the Greater Escanaba Committee cooperating with the Upper Peninsula Power Company.

Odds From Past History Favor Eisenhower As 1956 Candidate

THE Republican setback raises anew the question whether President Eisenhower will run again. The answer depends as much on future happenings as on the past. Some light, however, may be thrown by the record of past presidents.

Almost all of them have tried for a second term. The only exceptions were Polk, Buchanan and Hayes, who made no effort to be reelected. Pierce was defeated for renomination, the only elected president to meet this fate. Four accidental presidents, vice-presidents who succeeded to the office

Words, Wit &amp; Wisdom

By William Morris

"The other night," notes a young reader, "you mentioned something about 'trumped-up' charges in your column. I don't understand this phrase. Please explain."

The "trump" in the phrase "trumped-up" comes from the same root as the word "trumpet," in that both owe their origin to the French word "tromper," which once meant to play on the trumpet and now means to deceive. Gradually—and perhaps by analogy—to the card-game use of "trump" (from the French "trionphe")—the word came to mean cheat or deceive. Thus "trumped-up" charges are spurious, deceitful charges concocted out of whole cloth.

"What did you mean," questions another reader, "when you said that auricular—old-fashioned radio's answer to television's rash of 'spectaculars'—was a 'nonce word'?"

The term "nonce word" is part of the jargon of language experts (and, believe me, the shop talk of linguists and semanticists can be downright incomprehensible at times!). It means, simply, a word coined and used for one particular occasion.

Excellent examples of nonce words, by the way, were "trylon" and "perisphere" coined to denote the huge ball and attenuated pyramid which were the trademark of New York's last World's Fair. As soon as the fair closed and the reason for existence of these words perished, they too disappeared with the newer dictionaries not even recording that they ever existed.

At last, I thought these two words were well forgotten until I found in last week's mail this note from a Westchester County (N. Y.) housewife. "A national magazine recently mentioned a huge 'plyon' at the recent international convention of clergymen at Evanton. Can it be that someone has resurrected Grover Whalen's World's Fair symbol, with all its worldly connotations for so reverential an occasion as this?"

The answer, of course, is no. Had my correspondent checked her dictionary, she would have found that pylon—not trylon—has an honored history dating back to the days of ancient Greece when it meant a gateway, especially one set between two massive, truncated pyramids. More recently it has been used in aviation racing to designate a post or tower marking the course of flight. Matter of fact, William Faulkner used PYLON as the title for one of his early novels about airplane racing.

Try And Stop Me By BENNETT CERF

In Miami Beach, the aging author of a half dozen inspirational novels turned up with a ravishing (if glib) story in tow, explaining she was in his "nice." The latter walked out on him three days later, disillusioned. "Not only did he lie to me about the size of his yacht," she complained to newsmen Jack Kofod, "but he made me do the rowing."

A party in Apartment C grew noisier as the night progressed, and finally, when one guest began tooting on his cornet at 3 a. m. the occupant of Apartment B, foaming with rage, began banging frantically on the separating wall. The cornetist heard the blows and stop playing long enough to ask in wonder, "Now who'd be loony enough to start hanging pictures at this hour?"

on the death of their predecessors, Tyler, Fillmore, Johnson and Arthur, were rejected for renomination. Johnson was not even considered in the 1868 convention of the Republicans to whom he nominally belonged; he had, however, much support in the Democratic convention of the same year. Except for these five, any president who wanted a second term was renominated, even when, as with Taft and Hoover, their chances for election were slim.

The deduction is that if the President wishes to run again, he will be the Republican candidate, all the more so as he is admittedly their most popular figure. Most presidents do have a second term. The odds from past history are in favor of President Eisenhower being on the ballot in 1956.

Momentous Decision Awaited In Europe

A momentous court decision—the first of its kind in history—is being awaited in Europe.

The decision is important because it is being made by a supranational court, the supreme court of the European Coal and Steel Community. Simply for the case to be tried meant that the member governments had to concede the sovereignty needed to permit such a court to operate. Whatever the decision, it will be accepted by all the governments involved, and they are committed to enforce it through their own courts and police systems.

The court hearing this case is not international, like that at The Hague. Actually, it has no parallel in history, and no precedent on which it can rely for guidance. The decision to be handed down will give rise to a whole new legal concept involving supranational law, a law which will guide the conduct of nations just as national law governs the conduct of men in separate nations.

The case involved in this new court is a technical one, dealing with the pricing of steel among member nations of the Coal and Steel Community. Technical as the case may be, however, it is important to those involved. But of far more importance is the fact that these nations are submitting their position to a court. Instead of acting individually, instead of trying to force their individual points of view on each other, they are submitting to a higher joint authority. This indeed represents progress toward justice, as well as hope.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Everybody in the government here, including the Congress, seems to be in favor of "co-existence" with Soviet Russia but nobody is quite sure it's going to be "peaceful."

That's the crux of the debate precipitated Tuesday by Senator Knowland, Republican of California, majority leader, who wants to discuss frankly and in the open just what the present Communist activities in the world really mean.

This doesn't mean that Mr. Knowland is necessarily at variance with the White House. Nor is there any real evidence that either the President or the secretary of state are averse to having the Senate debate the issues. For it is apparent that, as Secretary Dulles himself told a press conference after the Knowland speech, there is some difference of opinion between Moscow and Washington as to just what "peaceful co-existence" means.

So far as this government and perhaps also most all of the western countries known as a part of the free world are concerned, "peaceful co-existence" means honorable intercourse, a willingness to keep out of each other's affairs, and particularly it means the absence of any aggression.

MOSCOW ISN'T SINCERE

But the suspicion here, which is shared by the executive branch of the government, is that, just as the Soviet Union claims it is a "democracy," so will it also distort the meaning of "peaceful co-existence."

To the United States, "peaceful co-existence" does not mean the repeated shooting down of planes on peaceful errands or a threat to invade weaker countries such as is now being witnessed in the Far East and Southeast Asia.

Since it is apparent that Moscow isn't sincere and refuses to be peaceful, the debate on what "co-existence" means has been opened up in timely fashion by Senator Knowland. There are indications that Senator Lyndon Johnson, who speaks as Democratic party leader, and other Democrats in Congress are aware of the importance of full discussion, especially as it relates to the meaning of "peaceful co-existence."

It is of the utmost importance, too, that Soviet Russia should not misconstrue the meaning of the last election. In Britain, Clement Attlee of the Labor party was quoted not long ago as saying that a Democratic victory in the congressional elections would mean a change in America's stand against admission of Red China into the United Nations.

There are some Democrats like Senator Hennings of Missouri, who by their speeches at any rate give the impression that they believe there is no alternative to "peaceful co-existence" except an atomic war. There are, moreover, some impressions conveyed occasionally by the President's remarks at his press conferences which have led to a belief that he is against war no matter how much American rights may be violated.

NOT PEACE AT ANY PRICE

The truth is the President is not a "peace at any price" man and has never deliberately given that impression. On the contrary, he is the kind of president who, like Woodrow Wilson, is known for his pacific desires and tendencies but, when the big overt act comes and there is no alternative but to fight it out, he courageously makes that decision.

The big wars in history have come because the enemy has misconstrued the patience of the democracies and miscalculated what they might do if their allies were attacked.

The purpose of the debate started by Senator Knowland is to let Soviet Russia know that America isn't going to sit passively by while the Communists gobble up nation after nation in Asia or while they carry on their subversive propaganda inside peaceful nations. The idea of severing diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union is often mentioned by Mr. Knowland as one of the alternatives to war. It is a step considered as one means of impressing the Soviet that she cannot count on a "co-existence" policy that envisages a continuance of the "cold war" by the Soviets.

Something more than mere talk about peace is being sought. Senator Knowland's remarks, which have already been misinterpreted as belligerent and probably will be twisted by critics who want a "peace at any price" policy, are designed solely to apply moral force to prevent a third world war from breaking out. That's why the debate that has started is a healthy sign. It may be that Moscow will be convinced by the discussion that there is more for the Soviet government to do on the "peaceful" end of "co-existence" than has been apparent thus far from Moscow. ## Little Remote School House Has Kids All Over The World

By WARD CANNEL

BALTIMORE —(NEA)—Dr. Archibald Hart, assistant headmaster of the private Calvert School, read the composition again. It was not very good and he wrote a note across the paper asking the student to review his grammar again.

Then he put the theme in an airmail envelope and dropped it into his "outgoing" box. Within the week it would be delivered—by mail launch—to a 10-year-old student whose classroom and home was a 60-foot schooner now anchored at Hawaii before setting sail for the Philippines.

The same mail from the Calvert School's faculty at Baltimore would be delivered to another 8000 students in every land under the sun by dog sled, dugout canoe, camel back, mule pack or parachute.

For the Calvert School is an unendowed, non-profit institution that offers home study courses from the first to ninth grades to any child anywhere who cannot attend regular schools.

The youngster on a world tour on his father's schooner would pick up his lessons, books, pencils and paper in Malaya, Ceylon, India, Saudi, Arabia and Egypt before his trip was ended.

And in every one of those lands he could have found students taking the same course from the same school in Baltimore.

In some places, the children live at U. S. embassies, Army posts, missionary quarters or in homes provided by American industry working on international jobs.

In the United States, children take Calvert courses because "it is 45 miles to the nearest school" or because there is "six feet of snow on the roads during the winter."

Many of the children are shut-in because of illness and accident. Many are on the road with their show-business parents.

But all of them are up on their studies and could, if conditions permitted, move right into a regular classroom school without losing any time in make-up work. The Calvert curriculum is approved by the State of Maryland and, therefore, all U. S. schools.

Although there are Calvert students in every state in the Union and in every land in the world, the course of study is not limited to Americans. The son of an Arabian banker, the daughter of a Venezuelan diplomat and a Lisu orphan in northern Burma, for instance, are subscribers to the school.

The business of out-students began nearly 50 years ago when the Calvert School had already been dealing in education for a long time.

Baltimore had a whooping cough epidemic in 1905. And the study-by-mail course was set up to keep students from missing work. By the time the epidemic was over, enough permanent shut-in students had been enrolled to keep the program going.

For the most part, Calvert is known around the world only by word-of-mouth. Because it is a non-profit organization advertising has been a tiny part of the school budget.

Tuition fees paid by students—about $80 per year—are turned back into materials, texts and curriculum matters that are mailed in 25-pound packages to each student for each course.

Every course is tried out at the student body at the Calvert School in Baltimore before it is mailed to students around the world.

Additional time and money are poured into the teacher's manual that will go to the parents who must become teachers to their children.

But most of the money goes into revising school books every three years. Besides fundamental courses, the Calvert list includes astronomy, art history, mythology.

In the words of school headmaster Edward Brown: "We've got to be very careful about keeping our books up to date. After all, we're not just talking to students who are there."

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—A tremendous amount of unpublicized work on rearming Western Germany has already been done by the U. S. Department of Defense. Much of the planning has already been completed and large volumes of military supplies have been accumulated in the U. S.

Delivery of these supplies for equipping the German army can be begun as soon as the agreements recently signed at Paris can be ratified by Germany, the North Atlantic Treaty and Western European Union countries. This ratification is now hoped for by February, 1955, at the earliest but it will probably be some months later.

It will be two years after ratification before Germany has her 12 army divisions and auxiliary troops. It will be another year before the German air force and navy can be made fully operative.

It would be foolish to start counting these troops as already mobilized on the side of the Western powers. But it would be wrong to think that Germany has to start from absolute scratch in building up its forces.

ON RECRUITING AND TRAINING the approximately 500,000 troops, the Germans do have to begin at the beginning. But plans have already been worked out for a draft system similar to that of the United States. This draft will be supplemented by volunteers.

The West German police force will not be moved over into the new German army en masse. Some officers and noncommissioned officers who are veterans of past wars may transfer over to the new force. But there is no German "army of 100,000 sergeants," such as Adolf Hitler had when he started to build up the Wehrmacht.

Officer, pilot and noncom schools will naturally come first for retraining German veterans. The rookies will be largely draftees in their late teens and early twenties, like new American privates.

Most of the old German barracks are now occupied by American, British and French occupation troops. They will stay on. Contracts for some new camps and training areas still have to be let.

German airfields, supply centers and other military installations have already been largely built and paid for by German money in the last four years. This money has come from the occupation costs paid by Germany to the U. S., Britain and France.

THESE PAYMENTS AMOUNTED TO $100 million a month from 1946 through 1951 and $143 million a month from 1952 through 1954. The total is over $12 billion.

A German military budget has already been provided for. Now amounting to $1.7 billion a year in occupation costs, it will go to about $3 billion a year when Germany has her own armed forces.

Germany will provide all the uniforms, pay, subsistence, light arms and ammunition for her own troops. It will, of course, take some time to get German military production lines rolling.

The United States will supply aircraft, ships, tanks, heavy artillery and the big items of military equipment which take a longer time to produce for the initial equipment. The new treaties, of course, prohibit German production of atomic and special weapons. There is no provision that Britain and France will share the costs of German heavy equipment.

EARLY IN JANUARY, however, there will be a meeting of European military officials in London to work out plans for an arms production pool, suggested by French Premier Mendes-France.

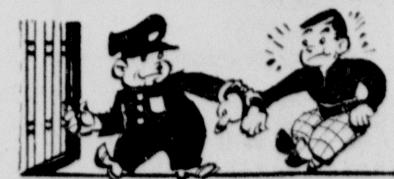

The amount of U. S. money appropriated for the initial German army equipment has never been made public. The figures are buried in U. S. Mutual Security program appropriations which are announced only by area totals.

It is known that there was no appropriation for Germany in this year's U. S. military budget, but there were appropriations in the two years previous. All this action was taken in anticipation of adoption of the European Defense Community plan. Though EDC was killed, this planning and procurement were not wasted. They will provide just as effective military aid for Germany under the new Western European Union.

Whether a supplemental German military aid appropriation will be asked for when Congress returns in January, and whether an extra German aid appropriation will be asked for fiscal 1956 have not been decided. They will depend on the progress of treaty ratification. Before any U. S. aid can go to Germany, of course, a standard military assistance agreement will have to be made between the two countries.

The Doctor Says . . .
Alcoholic Must Face Reality,
Desire to Stop; AA Can Help

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

A cry for help comes in the form of a tragic letter. The lady writes "I am a nervous person and during the past year my nervousness has increased so that it is unbearable at times, and when this happened I started drinking. I am making the whole family miserable and unhappy, including myself. My two girls are miserable. Isn't there some medicine that would help me stop drinking since I know it isn't good for me. I don't do it every day but feel it may run into that."

It seems from this letter that the correspondent has entered or is about to enter the world peopled so fully by those who cannot leave alcohol alone. There is nothing in the letter to indicate that this is merely "social drinking" but rather a really dangerous state of craving for forgetfulness through alcohol.

NO ONE KNOWS exactly why people develop this craving for alcohol and inability to stop. Alcoholism is not inherited. As one man said, "Alcohol is an extremely effective agent for rosily blurring and softening the rigid and forbidding outlines of reality."

As times goes on the person headed for chronic alcoholism seeks to shut out his troubles more and more often in drink. It is an escape. It is also a defect of personality and reflects an unwillingness or inability to face up to the troubles of the world. MOST DOCTORS have come to consider chronic alcoholics as sick people and the alcoholism as a symptom of the condition which caused the person to take to drink, just as a fever is a symptom of pneumonia.

Unfortunately there is as yet no thoroughly satisfactory treatment for the chronic alcoholic. Under careful supervision some have been cured by a method which leads them to develop an aversion or distaste for any drink containing alcohol. Hypnotism has also been tried with some success. Electric shock treatments are under study. An organization of ex-alcoholics, called "Alcoholics Anonymous," has often succeeded when other methods have failed.

THE VICTIM of the alcohol habit usually thinks he can stop at the proper time or feels that a small glass of wine or beer would not do any harm. When he gets it, however, he cannot stop and keeps on taking just one drink more until perhaps he ends in the police station, the gutter, or the morgue.

The writer of the letter quoted at the beginning of this column should seek help promptly if she is unable to stop herself from drinking. The act that she recognizes the danger and wants to stop should be of great help.

Spectacular Future Seen For Chemistry

DETROIT — Leland I. Doan, president of the Dow Chemical Co., says that "however spectacular may have been our achievements in the last generation or so, it can be nothing but a prelude to greater achievement in the future."

Doan, speaking to the Bankers Club of Detroit Wednesday night, also said that the economic pessimist of today "must be the same sort of fellow who thought the human race had shot its wad with the settlement of California."

Doan said the chemistry industry had its real beginning in the United States during World War I and that in the last decade the six leading American companies had grown from 129 to 624 per cent. "Now some people look at the chemical industry today and fret that it is overexpanded," Doan said. "In our own case I can tell them that our expansion of recent years—quite a lot of it done with the view to an emergency which did not develop—has placed us in an extremely strong position with relation to the basic materials on which our extremely diversified production depends."

"My own company is currently operating at something like two-thirds of capacity," Doan continued. "Under those conditions it is not difficult to find people who tell you that you have climbed too far out on the limb."

"We can tell them that our depreciation expense, which included a considerable amount of accelerated amortization, has about reached its peak and after this year should begin to decrease."

"Or, conversely, that over the following five years we could probably lay out $400,000,000 for new construction without materially changing that depreciation account."

THE STORY: Police think Paul Flagg had something to do with the murder of District Attorney Barnett Larkin, who married Paul's ex-wife Diana. Although Paul did not commit the crime, he did move the body, thinking that Dina shot Larkin and not wishing their son Joey to be known as the son of a murderer. Now Paul is being questioned by Chief of Police Ernie Watrous and members of the D. A.'s staff.

XI
Martha said, "Ted, tell Paul what your wife told you." She was running like the chairman of a meeting.

Ted squirmed his shoulders as if his jacket were too tight. "Charlotte phoned me a little while ago. She said Chief Watrous was there with a mob of cops. She said they showed her a picture—I guess the same one Watrous showed here, this Larkin, the district attorney who's been shot—and Charlotte told them she'd never seen him in her life. They asked her a lot of questions—I don't know what all she didn't say over the phone. Anyway, she had to tell them how Mrs. Larkin came yesterday and didn't wait for you. Then they went into your apartment. She said she saw them taking fingerprints, dusting powder over everything, and looking all over."

said: "Mrs. Fleming, what did you tell Chief Watrous?"
Mrs. Fleming's eyes lost their excited brightness. They became contrite. "He asked where were you all yesterday afternoon and what time you left. I said you left before I did, before 5 o'clock. I said you said you weren't coming back, that after—" She broke off, confused, upset.

"Go on," Martha said.
Mrs. Fleming drew in her breath. "Then he asked did Mrs. Larkin phone you, and I said yes, right after you came back from lunch. I said all I heard was you telling her how to get to your place. Honest, Paul, I had to tell him. When a policeman asks you questions and there's been a murder—" She dipped her head, unable to get the word out.

"What's got into all of you?" Martha scolded. "You're acting as if you'd done something wrong by telling the truth. I'm sure there's nothing Paul wants hidden from the police."

They struggled out, and then it was very quiet in the office. I dropped into Mrs. Fleming's chair.

"What could have become of Dina?"
"She got panicky and ran away."

"We've been waiting for you,

"I thought that your idea was that she was out to frame me," I said bitterly. "The fact that she disappeared is like an admission of guilt."

She stared at her image in the mirror of the compact. "The important thing is that the body wasn't found in your closet."

She twisted toward the window. A car had stopped close to the office door and a uniformed cop was getting out. He was beefy, gray-haired; I recognized him as one of the local cops. He came into the office.

Paul Flagg?" he said, looking at me.

"Yes," I stood up, and her face was suddenly more angular, and harsh crooked lines appeared at the corners of her eyes and mouth. "Is he under arrest?"

The cop said: "All I know, I was told to bring Paul Flagg in."

Chief of police Ernie Watrous used his desk as a seat. Two other men were with him.

"We've been waiting for you,

Paul," he said. "You know Russ Handy. He tells me you met this afternoon at the Larkin home."

"Briefly," Handy's back was as straight as the chair on which he sat. "I think now too briefly."

With his chin Ernie indicated a slight, middle-aged man. "John Randolph, assistant district attorney. Now that Barnett Larkin is dead, I guess you can call him acting D. A."

A triangle of white handkerchief protruded above the breast pocket of Randolph's blue serge double-breasted suit. In West Amber breast pocket handkerchiefs were worn only at weddings and such.

"I wouldn't exactly say I'm acting district attorney," Randolph protested mildly. "As the senior assistant, it just so happens that I'm in charge."

I sat in a chair against the wall. That put Randolph on my left and Handy on my right and Ernie Watrous directly in front of me.

"You lied to me," Ernie said sadly. "You told me you hadn't seen Larkin for a long time."

"That's right."

He shook his head. "That's splitting hairs. In a murder we don't like splitting hairs. You didn't tell me Larkin came looking for you yesterday afternoon at Paley's warehouse. You didn't tell me he went to your house."

"I had no idea it was Larkin. Jack Dwight didn't know until you showed him Larkin's photo."

Handy said: "I see you've been following us around."

"People you questioned told me about it. Why not? By the way, did you have a warrant to search my apartment?"

Ernie opened his mouth, but Randolph beat him to it. "People who get legal have something to hide."

"Paul asked a fair question," Ernie told Randolph crisply. "Yeah, I got a warrant, Paul. I uphold the law. I don't break it. Maybe you didn't know it was Larkin, but you didn't tell me that his wife phoned you yesterday and then went to your house."

"You didn't ask me."

Council Debates Vote On Power

All the information regarding proposed solutions of the power shortage problem is not yet reported, the Upper Peninsula Power Company will finance a vote by Feb. 1 on the question of selling the city's electric distribution system, and until the power studies are completed the citizens of Escanaba should not be asked to express their views in advisory votes.

Opinions and viewpoints similar to the above were expressed by Escanaba City Councilmen last night in a discussion of methods of expediting solution of the power problem.

The subject was opened by Councilman Edward Cox, who said he favored placing the question of the sale of the city's electric distribution system before the people at the time of the charter election on Dec. 7.

Vote By Feb. 1
Councilman Robert E. LeMire noted that the Pfeiffer & Schultz electric study report has not yet been completed, and Mayor Harlan Yelland said he was informed the report would not be ready before Dec. 1.

Councilman Jacob Bink told the Council: "I've been assured we can have an election by Feb. 1 without any cost to the city." He said the Upper Peninsula Power Company, which has offered the city $1,000,000 for the system, would "put on" the election.

The City Council was advised by City Clerk George Harvey that the City Charter Revision Commission is prepared to urge citizen approval of the new city charter, to be presented to the people for adoption or rejection in a special election Dec. 7.

Industrial Site
Mayor Yelland and Councilmen Cox, LeMire and Hansen expressed satisfaction with the proposed new charter, praised the Commission for its work, and favored approval of the new charter by the citizens.

In other business the Council approved a motion to trade city-owned property across from the State Fair Grounds to the Industrial Foundation for lots on S. 14th St. owned by the Chamber of Commerce. The value of the properties is approximately $6,000 each.

City Manager A. V. Aronson said he had been informed by Gust Asp, Industrial Foundation chairman, that one small industry is interested in locating on about one-half of the city-owned area opposite the Fair Grounds.

The lots on S. 14th which the city would receive in trade would be sold for residential purposes "as soon as possible," the city manager recommended.

Campaign Manager For Democrats Gets $10,500 Lansing Job

LANSING (AP) — Sidney M. Woolner of Detroit, Democratic campaign manager in Michigan for the past two elections, will be the new deputy secretary of state next year.

Woolner's appointment was announced Thursday by Secretary of State-elect James M. Hare. The post pays $10,500 a year.

A personal friend of Hare's since their high school days, Woolner was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1932. He has been associated with the Realty Mortgage and Investment Corp. of Detroit recently, was director of the Office of Price Stabilization in Detroit, deputy commissioner of the State Corporations and Securities Commission and field supervisor for Jim Handy, Detroit industrial film firm.

Sunbather Mislays Clothes On Mountain With Keys To Car

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Riley Jason Stram, 67, of Redondo Beach, Calif., went for a drive and a walk in the mountains. Police said he told them this happened: He undressed to take a sunbath on a mountainside. An interesting rock formation led him to walk an apparently short distance away.

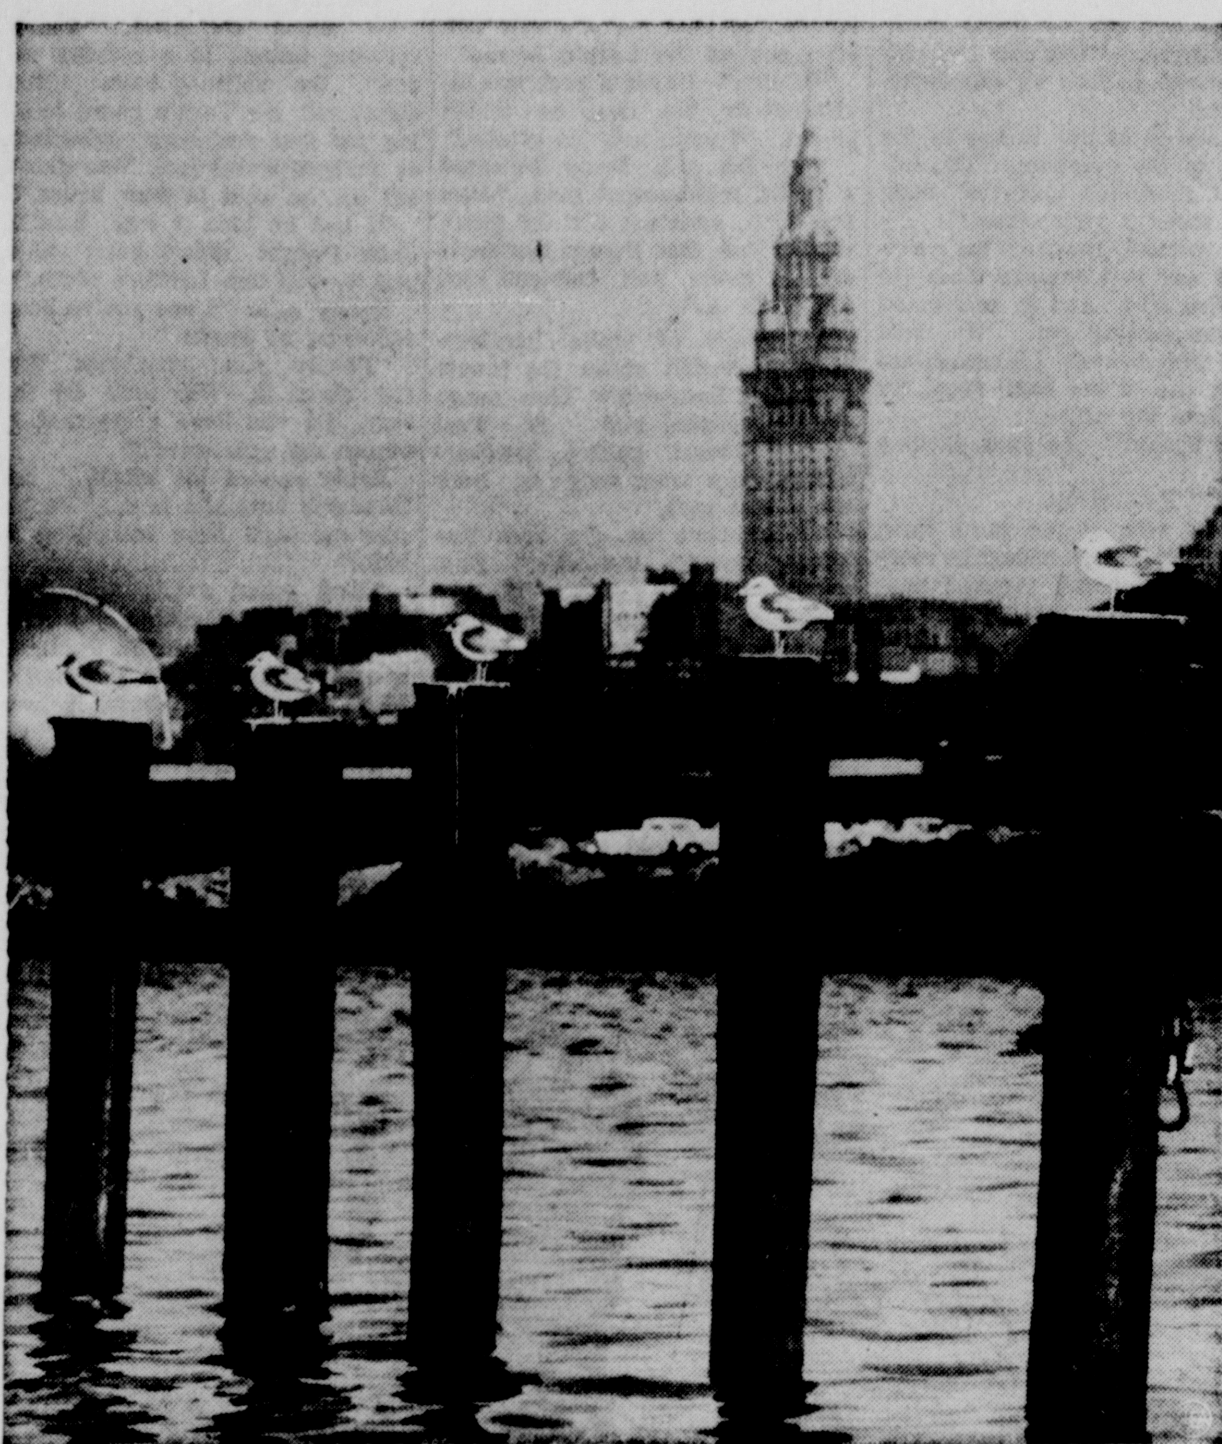

Then he couldn't find the spot where he had left his clothes. He searched vainly until the sun went down. The air became chilly.

Giving up the search, he walked down the mountains, approached a house and shouted for help. His shouts brought police — with blankets.

Stram slept in the police station. Thursday morning he set out in borrowed clothes to look again for his clothing, which contains his money and car keys. At sundown his car was still parked at the foot of the mountains.

Reunited With His Wife; Field Avoids Press In Zurich

airliner said in Vienna they had helped the two women leave their plane in Zurich Thursday night without newsmen at the airport being aware.

Howard Donovan, the U. S. consul general in Zurich, was at the airport to talk to Hermann, who had been convalescing in a Warsaw sanitarium since the Poles released him.

His brother, Noel, a prewar State Department employee, and Noel's wife, Herta, were hiding out from the press in Budapest. The Hungarian government announced this week that the couple, also arrested in 1949 by the Communists, had been freed and espionage charges against them had been dropped as "unsubstantiated."

U. S. legation officials in Budapest who interviewed Noel and Herta said they would enter a sanitarium there to recuperate from their imprisonment. At the Fields' request, they kept their whereabouts secret, as did the Hungarian government.

Gun On Tractor Wounds Youth

MANISTIQUE — Albert Noteboom Jr., 18, of Thompson, was accidentally shot at 3 p. m. Thursday with a 410 gauge shotgun while hauling logs with a tractor on the farm of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Noteboom, three miles west of Thompson.

He had the shotgun with a slug in it resting between his knees when the tractor hit a bump bouncing the gun off the platform. It discharged and the slug went through his right wrist. One bone was shattered and several fractured.

Manistique state police investigated. Noteboom is receiving treatment in Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital.

Plane Clips Trees; Pilot Lands Safely

HANCOCK — Maynard Hurlburt, a Calumet embalmer, walked away from his light Fairchild plane without injury after it clipped off tree-tops for 400 feet, then landed with the nose in a prospecting pit of an old mine.

Hurlburt said when his engine stopped 200 feet above the ground he tried to maneuver to a farm area for an emergency landing. The plane clipped off treetops, then plummeted, nose down, into a pile of thick brush, with the nose burying itself in the prospecting pit of the old Franklin Mine.

The plane stopped only 20 feet from the open pit of Franklin Mine No. 1 which has more than 50 feet of water.

Frank Stone, on whose land the plane crashed, said Hurlburt "got out walking steadily, and said he was unharmed."

"He wasn't even shocked," Stone added.

Mendes-France Says French Will Put OK On German Re-arming

WASHINGTON (AP) — Premier Mendes-France today pledged quick French approval of the German rearmament agreements regardless of new concessions Russia might offer to delay ratification.

"Ratification is not a matter of negotiation with the East," he said. "It cannot be regarded by the East as a trading point."

The visiting French leader, interrupting his foreign policy talks with President Eisenhower and Secretary of States Dulles, gave his promise in a speech for a National Press Club luncheon.

In an obvious bid to reassure his critics, Mendes-France cautioned against meeting with the Russians in "improvised and spectacular conferences intended principally for propaganda."

Mendes-France insisted the West, regardless of past deadlocks in meetings with the Russians, must continue to search for means of ending causes of friction, distrust and conflict with the Russians.

Navy Cancels Jet Plane Contracts For 372 Million Dollars

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy today cancelled 372 million dollars in contracts involving two types of jet fighter planes and engines.

A Navy announcement said cancellation was caused by a "delay in the development program" of one of the plane types and both engines.

Dropped in the cutback were orders for 200 "Demon" fighters made by McDonnell Aircraft Corp. of St. Louis; 96 "Cutlass" attack fighters made by Chance Vought Aircraft, Inc., of Dallas, and engines for them manufactured by Westinghouse Electric Corp. and the Allison division of General Motors.

Kalamazoo Mental Hospital' Murder Blamed On Slip-up

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Mercy Central School of Nursing has officially criticized the report of "immature judgment" as a prime factor in the Nov. 5 sex-slaying of Marilyn Kraai, 20, a student nurse at Kalamazoo State Hospital.

Sister Mary Xavier, director of the school at which the nurse was a former student, said Thursday: "It is a case where supervision must be improved. It could very well be 'immature judgment' of the supervisor in sending a student nurse to a ward instead of a male attendant."

In a telegram to the State Mental Health Commission, Sister Xavier asked an investigation of supervision provided for student nurses at Kalamazoo.

Louis Maurice Smith, 18, a hospital patient committed as a sex deviate, confessed he criminally assaulted the young nurse and strangled her. Smith is awaiting trial on a first degree murder charge.

One Pilot Killed; 3 Jets Collide

VICTORVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Three Air Force jet planes collided and crashed Thursday night, the San Bernardino county sheriff's office reported.

One pilot was killed, a spokesman for George Air Force Base said. The other two bailed out and were picked up suffering from shock and minor bruises.

The F86D all-weather jet interceptors, attached to the 94th Fighter Interceptor Squadron at George AFB here, were on a regular Air Defense Command mission.

Picked up by truck and brought to the base hospital, the spokesman said, were 1st Lt. Archie Ridall, Shippensburg, Pa., and 1st Lt. Carl Fechner, Alta Vista, Kan.

The spokesman said just what happened isn't known because the two fliers were in too much shock to tell.

Identity of the flier killed was withheld.

Murray Quits Making Automobile Bodies

DETROIT (AP) — Murray Corp. of America has quit its once extensive automobile body building business. Employment at Murray's Detroit auto body plant has dropped from 6,000 to below 50.

B. C. Gould, company president, said in a report to stockholders that the consolidation of car companies raised "the probability of the very limited market for the independent automotive body manufacturer becoming a still smaller."

Aged Couple Murdered In Ruins Of Store

TUPELO, Miss. (AP) — An elderly couple whose charred bodies were found in the ruins of their grocery store were murdered before the structure burned, officials said.

Dist. Atty. W. P. Mitchell said Thursday night an autopsy showed that Mr. and Mrs. Sam Addison were beaten to death. Addison was 75, his wife 77.

The couple's store near Amory burned Tuesday night. The bodies were found by fire fighters.

Dancer Weds Oilman

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Dancer Vera-Ellen and oilman Victor Rothschild plan to be married tonight at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in the San Fernando Valley.

They obtained a marriage license here Thursday. Both gave their ages as 31. Rothschild said this will be his first marriage. Vera-Ellen was divorced from dancer Robert C. Hightower in 1946.

Rusty Scissors May Be Clue In Shepard Case

CLEVELAND (AP) — A pair of rusty surgical scissors upon which was scratched the name of "M. Shepard" was being considered today as a possible clue in the July 4 slaying of pregnant Marilyn Shepard.

The scissors were found by little Sherry Lynn Babcock, 11, of Rochester, Ind., during the last week of July near a wooded resort in Michigan. Police were notified Thursday after the girl's grandmother Mrs. Goldie Babcock, of Elkhart, Ind., read of the Shepard case and became curious about the name on the scissors.

Osteopath Samuel H. Shepard, husband of the slain woman, is on trial for his life, accused of bludgeoning her to death during a quarrel. Police never have established what the murder weapon was.

The Babcock girl told Elkhart police Thursday she found the scissors stuck in the ground near a gravel road while she was visiting Robert O. Jones, near Arabus Lake, east of Traverse City, Mich.

The name "M. Shepard," spelled with one "p" instead of the two used by the Bay Village Shepards, and the initials "M. J. S." were scratched along both sides of the scissors. No member of the Shepard family here was known to use the initials M. J. S.

The scissors were about nine inches long. Scissor blades, however, are not shaped like the bloody pillow imprint Coroner

Samuel R. Gerber pointed out at the trial here Tuesday. That print showed what resembled two arched cutting blades, each one pronged near the end like a lobster claw.

Dr. Stephen A. Sheppard, brother of the defendant, told a reporter Thursday night the initials did not jibe with the name the slain woman usually used, Marilyn Reese Sheppard. Reese was her maiden name.

He also said he thought the defendant had his instruments marked "Sam Sheppard" with an engraving tool. But "only an inventory of Sam's bag would show whether any scissors were missing," the brother added.

Cleveland police said the scissors would be sent here today for examination.

Felch Housewife Hit By Bullet In Kitchen

FELCH (AP) — No one, it seems, is safe during the deer hunting season—not even a housewife washing dishes in her own kitchen.

That's what Mrs. Lillian Mattson, 37, of Felch was doing Thursday afternoon when a .22 calibre bullet (presumably from a hunter's rifle) crashed through her kitchen window and struck her in the stomach.

Fortunately, the bullet had lost most of its force and caused only a slight wound.

Barn Door No Place For Farm Records, Says County Agent

Simple Record Books Keep Accounts Straight

By J. L. HEIRMAN
County Agricultural Agent

The calendar and the barn door are out-of-date as a place to keep records. A simple farm account book will be more important than ever as farmers have more and more need for records.

Here are a few good reasons why records should be kept on the farm:

1. To make an income tax report.
2. To make a report on Social Security at the end of 1955.
3. To help find strong and weak points in the farm business.
4. Record your financial growth from year to year.
5. Summarize your financial situation if you should need to borrow money.
6. Make farming more interesting because you are not in the dark.

The young pullets you raised this summer should be in the laying house and producing eggs. They should be giving you 60% production if they are going to be profitable. Here are a few things to check in the laying house:

1. It takes 16 running feet of feeder space usable on both sides for 100 birds.
2. Chickens use water—about a gallon each day for 100 birds.
3. Plan 60 feet of roost space for every hundred birds—a little more for the bigger breeds.
4. The floor space should be three to four feet per bird.
5. You should have a minimum of twenty nests for 100 birds. If you have all the above requirements, you have the laying house properly equipped. If you are short on the above requirements, it may cut your egg production.

Giving bossy a haircut for the winter sounds silly doesn't it but that is our recommendation. There are some limitations—we do not mean a complete haircut. Clipping the hair on the udder, flanks and hind legs will reduce dust and dirt that can collect. Some studies made show that clipping reduced by over 50 percent, the rejected and otherwise low quality milk due to sediment. There is also evidence that where udders, flanks, and legs are clipped, the bacteria count is greatly reduced.

Giving milking machine rubber parts a week long soaking in lye water will make them last longer and help improve milk quality. Some farmers have more than doubled the life of their milker rubber by having two sets and resting one in lye water every other week. Make a solution of cold water and lye, using one can per gallon of water. Make enough solution to cover all rubber parts in a granite container. The lye solution will not only keep the rubber in top condition but will keep it clean and reduce bacteria count. Don't throw away that lye solution, it can be used repeatedly for months. The parts should be washed and rinsed after they are taken out of lye solution.

If you have a few bags of fertilizer laying around and you plan to use it to top dress pastures for next year, you can do it now. This will save you time in the spring. If the fertilizer you have has nitrogen in it, the loss over winter will be very little.

Two U. P. Holstein Herds Win Assn. Top Rating

Two Upper Peninsula dairy herds have received classifications from the Michigan Holstein-Friesian Breeders Association including the herd of Gail E. Bowers of Stephenson.

It marked the third time that Bowers' herd of eight had been classified and they were listed as two "very good" four "good plus," and two "good."

The other herd classified was the Michigan State College herd of 20 at the U. P. Experiment Station at Chatham. It was the seventh classification for the herd. The cattle were listed as three "very good," 11 "good plus," and six "good."

Headline speakers at the annual meeting held at the state headquarters this year include: Pres. J. A. Hannah, Dean T. K. Cowden of the School of Agriculture and Director D. B. Varner of the Extension Service.

Dr. B. T. Shaw, head of research for the U. S. Department of Agri-

Aid Sought In Soil Program

EAST LANSING — The folks who operate Michigan's 50 soil testing laboratories are sending out an early and urgent SOS.

Every year the laboratories test about 40,000 soil samples, and they're glad to do it. They could do more than the 800 samples per lab.

But the joker is that most of these samples come into the labs in spring.

Michigan State College Extension Soilsman Edward D. Longnecker reminds farmers to "come early and avoid the rush." Don't deliver samples one day and expect a reply in a week, he cautions.

Here's his advice: Take your samples from the soil now, send them to the lab, and you'll have plenty of time to study the results between now and the next planting season.

Sending the samples in early takes the pressure off the lab facilities, the soil tester, and the county agricultural agent who makes the recommendations. And, finally, you'll be able to order your fertilizer and lime early. You'll have the kind of fertilizer you want when you need it.

You don't want to throw fertilizer away and you certainly want to put on enough. Only a soil test can help you do this.

Ray Cook, head of the M.S.C. soil science department, maintains that farmers know better than anyone else the variation in their land's production, so you should be able to take a good, representative sample.

And a soil test, he stresses, can be only as good as the sample. A great many fields in Michigan, he explains, have different kinds of soil.

Generally, he says, one to three samples per field will be enough. But each sample should represent major differences in the soil and should be a composite of four to 10 samplings taken at intervals of 50 to 100 feet.

And, Dr. Cook urges, "do your sampling now; next spring may be too late."

Check Quality Of Leather Garments For Winter Wear

Fall weather and leather coats and jackets seem to go hand in hand. Besides being fashionable, leather clothing is warm and comfortable on brisk autumn days.

Marilyn Cummins, Houghton county home demonstration agent, cautions homemakers that there are many things to look for when buying these leather pieces.

Plastic imitations may cost less, but genuine leather is more comfortable and durable, especially for active people and children. In real leathers air will circulate, allowing perspiration to evaporate. Imitation leathers will not do this.

Mrs. Cummins suggests you look for good garment construction when you buy. Be sure it has a full, generous cut and neatly finished buttonholes. The seams should be sturdy with even, close stitching using heavy thread. Check the under arms and other hidden places to be sure a good quality leather has been used.

Along with good construction in jackets go well shaped collars, cuffs, and pockets. It is wise, too, to inspect the lining to see that it is high quality.

The kind of leather you choose for your coat or jacket will be determined by its use. For hard wear select a smooth leather such as capeskin, goatskin, or cowhide. Suede leathers, made mostly of sheep and lambskin, are for luxury or dress wear.

After buying a good leather garment, give it proper care to keep it good. Never let the leather get too dirty. Send it to a dry cleaner who is specially equipped to clean it. If your garment should get wet, stuff it with tissue paper and dry it away from the heat.

Four to 14 days is the age at which to dehorn calves, suggests Charles J. Little, Michigan State extension dairyman for the Upper Peninsula.

Make your feed cart big enough to feed all the cattle, or make a round-trip. Doubling back with an empty cart wastes time, points out J. L. Heirman, Delta county agricultural agent.

Farmers Under Social Security

If you operate a farm and net $400 or more, you'll be under the social security program on Jan. 1.

That's when you start to build up credit in the Old Age and Survivors' Insurance program for your dependents' protection and for your retirement, reminds J. L. Heirman, Delta county agricultural agent.

To pay for this, the farm operator will pay a new tax on his 1955 income.

And Heirman reminds, whether you are beyond retirement age or not makes no difference on the tax. You must pay the self-employment tax as long as you continue to work—if your net farm profit is $400 or more.

The tax will be 3 per cent of your net farm profits up to and including $4,200. The most anyone will pay per year will be $126 per year—until the rate increases in 1960.

If you hire a farm worker and pay him at least $100 per month in cash during next year, he also will come under social security. You and your worker each pay a tax of 2 per cent of the worker's income.

Details on the social security program and how to figure your benefits are available at the county extension office, Heirman points out. Or you can contact a social security fieldman at 1101 Ludington.

Soil Cement Paving Aids Rural Roads

Soil-cement paving is winning new advocates as an inexpensive yet durable surfacing for rural roads in Michigan.

The Genesee County Road Commission has constructed 13.2 miles of soil-cement pavement during the last four years and is so enthusiastic over results that it plans 22.7 additional miles in 1955.

"The soil-cement we have built so far has proved satisfactory in every respect, earning not only the endorsement of our road commission but the enthusiastic approval of all the people living on the roads," declares J. T. Sharpsteen, Genesee County Road Commission engineer. "Its first cost has been low and we have spent practically nothing for maintenance."

Soil-cement pavement is produced by mixing cement with native soil and water. When thoroughly compacted and hardened, the resultant base resembles concrete.

ICY SCENE—Harbor Island, where deer hunt described below was staged, lies 40 miles from Sault Ste. Marie in middle of St. Marys River which can get ice-clogged before opening of deer season in years with severe winters. Here, tug Chippewa is shown breaking ice in the river.

Island In St. Marys River Was Stage For Rigorous, Exciting Whitetail Hunt

Every deer hunt is memorable, but some are more memorable than others. In the latter category falls a deer hunt staged on Harbor Island, 40 miles below Sault Ste. Marie in the St. Marys River, several years before World War II.

An account of the hunt was prepared by Ralph A. Fisher, Phoenix, Ariz., based on descriptions given him by Cal Bogren, one of a party of seven Coast Guard enlisted men two officers and the son of an officer who participated in the hunt.

Departure In Heavy Blizzard

On the morning of Nov. 14 the party left Sault Ste. Marie in a heavy blizzard aboard an old cabin boat. The mercury was hovering around the zero mark, and the party was thankful that the boat's equipment included a good heating stove. Ice floes kept the boat's speed down considerably, but the party tied up at a broken-down dock on the uninhabited island late that afternoon. The bay was entirely frozen over except for a small stretch at the opening into the river.

The men were up before daylight the next day and ready to start hunting in the crisp zero weather. Starting for the western shore of the island, the men formed a line in which each hunter was about 100 yards apart and began a drive toward the southern tip. The group had not advanced 100 yards toward the tip when the two hunters nearest the western shore put up a buck. The deer circled toward the line, preventing anyone from executing a safe shot.

Three Flee To Safety

"I stood there watching that deer speeding through the forest with all feet outstretched," Bogren recalled. "He was getting away and was now about 200 yards to the northwest when I saw that there was a lane through the trees that he must cross. I brought my Savage 30 up and lined the sights on his shoulders. Then, to compensate for mechanical time, I swung my sights forward until I judged I was sighting six feet in front of his fleeing form, swinging easily on my hips as he sped on. Across the lane he started. I pressed the trigger. He was across so quickly and out of sight into the woods that I could not tell if my shot had been effective. Then one of the hunters shouted, 'You got him!'"

The shot had entered the buck's side near the lower ribs and came out at the shoulder in the other side. In a few minutes the deer was dressed and hanging to the limb of a tree and the drive resumed. A second buck was soon jumped, but this one made his way safely through the line without anyone firing a shot. A third buck, flushed near the east shore, circled along the water's edge and past the hunters to safety. A fourth jumped up out of range and fled to safety along the west shore.

Two Bucks In One Morning

The group then decided to drive toward the narrow middle neck of the island where three of the better riflemen were posted. The remaining seven hunters split into three groups to converge on the neck.

Bogren sighted a young buck during the drive and dropped him at 50 yards. Thus, before the morning was over, he had gotten his buck and the camp buck, and his shooting was over for the season.

Third Deer Killed

Shortly thereafter, one of the other drivers killed the party's third deer. But two of the hunters stationed on the neck fired at a pair of bucks and failed to connect.

At 11 in the morning the party headed for the boat and lunch. The next drive was to cover the east side of the island, the hunters moving toward the southern tip, the roughest part of the island, an area filled with windfalls and thickets and covered with a foot of snow.

Not a head of game was sighted during the first half mile. But shortly after that one of the men bagged the fourth buck, an eight-pointer. That was the last of the shooting that day. By nine in the evening everyone in the party was sleeping soundly on the boat.

Fifth Buck Dropped

At daylight the next day a drive was begun from the southeastern tip toward the neck where a couple of the hunters were stationed. The drive netted the fifth buck, shot by a hunter posted in the hardwoods along the neck.

The morning's second drive — along the west side — proved fruitless. Nor did the afternoon produce any shooting, although several deer were jumped.

The weather the third day was dark and threatening, but the men never had a chance to add to their bag. They had hardly finished breakfast when a motor launch pulled into the dock. "Report back for duty," the group was ordered; a large ore-boat had gone aground near the Sault, putting an end to two days of rigorous and thrilling hunting on an island Bogren has described as a "deer hunter's dream spot."

Members of the Iron River Sportsmen's Club and conservation students from Iron River High School recently undertook a program to plant two bushels of wild rice along Iron County waterways as part of the club's continuing program for wildlife habitat improvement.

At its last monthly meeting, the Wisconsin Conservation Commission approved a proposal which would bring Upper Michigan and Wisconsin non-resident commercial fishing licenses into agreement. The proposed legislation would license "Wisconsin residents at the rate of $1 per foot of boat length, with $16 and $75 limits, instead of on gear fished as at present."

Purchase of a public fishing site on Mary Lake in Iron County was approved at the last meeting of the Michigan Conservation Commission.

Gaylord's nationally famous "meat pole" for deer and bear is hanging heavy again this year. First set up in 1951 under the auspices of the Otesco County Chamber of Commerce (Douglas W. Nash, Sr., former Marquette resident, is secretary-treasurer), the pole is the center of the village's attention during the first days of every deer season. It has helped establish Gaylord as one of the liveliest communities in the state for deer hunters.

Bert Stoll, outdoor editor of the Bay City Times, offers this bit of reminiscing: "At Mackinaw City, where scores of deer hunters have been crossing the Straits the past few days, heading for their camps in the Upper Peninsula, oldtimers in the state ferry service recalled the deer season of the last fall during World War II when gas rationing was still in effect and OPA men were checking gas coupons of Michigan deer hunters who had 'begged, borrowed and hoarded' coupons to get enough gas for the long trip to the U. P. and back. One party of hunters threatened to throw one of the OPA inspectors—who was particularly insistent that 'red tape' of the rationing system be closely adhered to—from the state ferry dock into the bitter cold waters of the Straits that season."

The morning's second drive — along the west side — proved fruitless. Nor did the afternoon produce any shooting, although several deer were jumped.

Portable Deer Hunting 'Camp' Designed By Marquette Nimrod

Across the length and breadth of the Upper Peninsula tonight deer hunters will be ensconced in a wide variety of lodgings, ranging from a simple sleeping bag resting on boughs of cedar to luxurious hotel rooms.

The type of bed and board chosen by deer hunters is infinite. Some are content with an old-fashioned tent. Others shelter themselves beneath the warm roofs of fancy motels or ultra-modern house trailers complete with all of the fineries, including television.

Lone Disadvantage

In between these two extremes lies the time-honored hunting camp with bunks or cots and an adequate heating system. This is by far the most popular type of housing for deer hunters in the Upper Peninsula. It's only disadvantage is that it is stationary. If the deer country surrounding the camp goes "down," the camp can scarcely be moved to more favorable areas.

John Ringneck Gives Gunners Rough Time

By Ken Lowe

In his book entitled "Ruffed Grouse," John Alden Knight, who admittedly is partial to partridge hunting, has this to say about pheasant hunting: "Even if it was good, I wouldn't like it."

A somewhat biased grouse hunter myself, I decided last week to put Mr. Knight's caustic observation to the acid test, and I found that he had slightly overstated the case. Pheasant hunting is no cinch, even though it may lack some of the charms and challenges of pat shooting.

There was a heavy frost on the ground the morning my friend, Warren Kendall of Rochester, called to pick me up for a rooster hunt on the last day of the season. I was staying in Oakland County a few miles north of Detroit, and I was openly surprised when Kendall pointed the car south toward Wayne County after picking me up.

Kendall drove almost to the Eight-Mile Road, Detroit's northern city limits, before turning west. We stopped off a busy traffic artery, and Kendall opened the trunk of the car. A barrel-chested pointer plunged out, looked at us impatiently, and headed for a ragweed patch that ran along the highway. His name was Duke and his ability to uncover pheasants, it turned out, was remarkable. He even found pheasants where nothing but people should be living.

The ragweed field was surrounded on three sides by homes and on the fourth by the busy highway. This should prove highly exciting, I thought to myself — even if you miss a pheasant on the wing, you still stand a good chance of bagging a housewife.

As it developed, however, there was room enough for shooting, providing you were careful and fired only at birds that flushed safely away from houses and the road.

We weren't two minutes from the car when Duke, an eight-year-old veteran, went on point. "I don't think so, Duke," Kendall said, but the words had scarcely fallen on the frosty air when a big rooster jumped out of the clump of ragweed. Kendall fired and missed, possibly still refusing to believe that the clump actually had harbored a pheasant. That was the only shot fired all morning.

We worked the patch over thoroughly and Duke made game three or four times more, but in each case it was a hen that flushed. On one occasion he made a solid point and our pulse accelerated. But when we moved in, the game that flushed wasn't pheasant, but a bevy of quail. They blurred across the field like little rockets, and the sight of them made the morning memorable.

Before noon we tried a couple of other spots in equally suburban areas with equally futile results — hens, lots of them, but no roosters. After lunch we decided to try a farm that sprawled over a rich square section of land between Pontiac and Mt. Clemens.

We started by working a ravine filled with chest-high bull rushes. Within five minutes we put up at least 15 birds, only three of them cocks. I had an easy shot at one and missed. Kendall took an unsuccessful long shot at another.

After that we had to work for our roosters. Duke went on point on a number of occasions, but almost without exception, it was a hen that broke out. Finally we flushed a cock — only to have both of us score clean misses. It was beginning to look as though neither of us could hit anything faster than a penguin.

The air began turning cool and the shadows deepened. We combed a couple of corn fields and a stubble patch, putting nothing up but hens. This was the last day of the season, and there was precious little left of it when we finally turned back to the car, resigned to going home empty handed. Even Duke apparently had given up.

Tail Wags Forgiveness

We were about 25 yards from the car when I reached down to empty my shotgun. At the same instant a cock pheasant rose from

Partly to counteract this disadvantage, various types of portable camps have been devised. These include, of course, the mass-produced house trailer. Also in this category are school buses which have been converted into "hunting camps" and ordinary trailers on whose platforms small "cabins" or tent structures have been erected.

It remained for a Marquette hunter, however, to devise something really unusual in the field of portable hunting camps. He is Edward Turenne, 509 Rock street, who constructed a collapsible shack that can be set down almost anywhere in the deer country with a minimum of effort.

The shack stands seven feet wide, eight feet long and has walls five feet, seven inches high. With hinged joints, it folds down neatly into a light bundle only two feet thick.

The interior is large enough to accommodate two cots, a stove, table and shelves. There is no floor.

Assisted by Francis Robarge, also of Marquette, Turenne put the shack together in three days. He used cedar lumber because of its light weight and employed tarpaper siding because of its warmth.

Turenne claims his "camp" gives him a new freedom in hunting, and there's no denying his point of view.

On the edge of a cornfield, Kendall and I fired simultaneously as the ringneck flew toward the shadows of a small stand of timber. He never reached the woods.

Duke was off at the crack of the guns. He came back with a mouthful of some of the hardest-earned game he had ever worked for, his tail wagging forgiveness for our poor marksmanship. Perhaps he, too, knew that it would be eleven long months before he'd be chasing John Ringneck again.

Archery And Does

To The Editor:

I read with deep concern the account in The Mining Journal relative to shifting the bow and arrow season to Nov. 15-30 to concur with the rifle season. This is tantamount to putting an end to the bow and arrow season entirely.

I have never been lucky enough to shoot a deer with the bow and arrow, but the thrill of trying to match wits with wild game on a sporting basis is one of the main reasons why I decided to purchase property in Marquette County.

I am at a loss to understand this action on the part of the Marquette County Board of Supervisors, and I would appreciate knowing the reasoning behind this resolution.

ARTHUR ANDERSEN
Pine Crest
Republic

Dear Sir:

At a recent meeting of the Negaunee Rod and Gun Club our group went on record as opposing the taking of does during the archery and/or the regular deer season. Discussion was centered on an article written by the late George Shiras for the National Geographic Magazine, "The Wild Life of Lake Superior, Past and Present," in which the following was stated:

"The white-tail is the one big game animal whose perpetuation means more to the sportsmen of the entire country than any other animal."

"The first and foremost necessity is a buck law to protect the females and fawns in every State containing any antlered animal. Just let it be understood that when a buck is shot the number for the following year is lessened by only one, whereas he who kills a young doe destroys, by a single shot, potentially 151 bucks and 151 does! For it has been shown, upon a strictly scientific basis and by an accurate mathematical calculation, that a doe and her descendants in a period of ten years, not counting out the natural casualties, will produce a total of 302 deer, and by the death of this ancestral mother the link is broken, with the irrevocable loss stated."

"The same proportion holds true with a larger number, for ten does and their descendants will produce 1,510 bucks and 1,510 does, showing that when the female is protected more deer can be killed each year, besides leaving an increased number in the woods."

"Such a result is not, after all, so mysterious, if we keep in mind the methods of reproduction applicable to domestic animals; for if a farmer had as many bulls as cows, as many roosters as hens, and killed them indiscriminately of sex, he would, of course, be classed as demented."

"Just because our wild animals bear their young in remote thickets, we seem to think their maintenance is based upon a different method, and go on killing the females year in and out under the blind assumption that it can make no particular difference in the future supply, whereas it represents the difference between extinction and perpetuation."

The State of Wisconsin permitted the taking of does—they gambled and lost—Do we in Michigan want this to happen?

ROLAND JUCHEMICH, Jr.
Secretary
Negaunee Rod & Gun Club

(For the record, it should be noted that Shiras also wrote as follows in an article published in the National Geographic Magazine: "So well does the buck law, when efficiently enforced, build up deer and elk herds that the increasing total sometimes threatens starvation in limited areas and necessitates a regulated kill of the females as the only practical method of keeping the animals within reasonable limits." —Ed.)

MUCC Okays Application Of Laird Group

The board of directors of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs has approved the application for affiliation of the Laird Conservation Club of Houghton County, now a member of the Northern Michigan Sportsmen's Association. The club lists 158 members.

Adrian Heinonen, Pelky, president of the club, was elected a director from MUCC District 19 and district chairman.

Regional MUCC Vice-President James Rouman, Escanaba, recently addressed a meeting of District 19 on the question of affiliation with MUCC. The district covers the west half of the Upper Peninsula. Clubs, represented at the meeting were from Aiston (Laird Township), Ontonagon, Hermansville, Escanaba, Crystal Falls, Caspian, Munising, Baraga, Ewen and Bruce Crossing, where the meeting was held. The next district meeting (date to be selected later) will be held in Hermansville. Resolutions and proposals for the annual MUCC state convention in Escanaba June 16 to 19 will be aired at that meeting.

Children In Design Of 1954 Christmas Seal

One girl has bangs, another pig-tails; there's a boy in a bow-tie, and another wearing a four-in-hand; still another is dressed in overalls. They're on the 1954 tuberculosis Christmas Seals, which will be delivered to Delta county homes beginning Monday, November 22.

In fact, a count shows a total of 250 children run across the face of each sheet of the new Christmas Seals. According to the Escanaba Woman's Club, "they're representative of the legions of children who will be given more safety from tuberculosis through your Christmas Seal contribution."

The association, this week engaged in the last minute rush of getting Christmas Seal mailings ready, stresses the urgency of this year's TB campaign.

Scores of unsuspecting men and women, the association says, are spreading tuberculosis germs, "unknown to themselves." Finding innocent carriers in time to save their lives and in time to check the wide spread of the disease to others is key goal of Christmas Seal proceeds.

"Use strips of Christmas Seals this year," is one of the suggestions made by the association. The outstretched hands of children meet at the edge of each seal, giving the effect of long, uninterupted chains of boys and girls.

Reviving an old slogan, citizens were urged to plan to "buy and use the stamp of health to help stamp out TB."

Plymouth To Observe Old Time Thanksgiving

Once again the clocks will turn back in Massachusetts, but this time a matter of three centuries, as the Bay State celebrates Thanksgiving in old-time Yankee style, according to an announcement by the Massachusetts Department of Commerce.

Plymouth, America's Home Town, will celebrate the 333rd anniversary of Thanksgiving Day in traditional fashion. Simultaneously, Old Sturbridge Village, in mid state, will also celebrate the day with a Thanksgiving as it was lived 300 years ago.

Special church services inaugurate Thanksgiving Day in Plymouth, when visitors and townspeople alike congregate at the First Church, Plymouth, at 10 in the morning. Every historical point of interest in the town will be open to visitors from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. with the townspeople in Pilgrim costume serving cider and doughnuts throughout the day.

Pilgrim Processional
In the afternoon, the Pilgrim Progress procession will be enacted when 52 descendants of the original band of settlers, which landed at Plymouth Rock on the Mayflower, will march to the accompaniment of old hymns and colonial drumbeat from Cole's Hill to Burial Hill. This event usually receives world-wide attention, as visitors and descendants of the original families come from far and wide to attend this affair as a feature of Thanksgiving Day.

Those who visit the historical homes during the day will have an opportunity to see the daily life as it was lived during early Plymouth Plantation days as Plymouth women, in traditional costume, spin yarn, as the ancestors did, weave cloth and display the old cooking utensils.

At Old Sturbridge Village, in true Yankee style, a huge Thanksgiving feast will be provided at the Tavern On The Green. The village, which consists of a group of authentic colonial homes and shops, will be open at 10 a. m. so visitors may first make a tour of the buildings.

Feast of Day
A display firing of early American firearms will take place at 11 o'clock in the morning, when old muzzle-loading muskets and early rifles will be demonstrated for the visitors. At about noontime, the feast of the day, which follows the menu of early American Thanksgiving dinners, turkey, of course, with special stuffing, local vegetables and condiments, Johnnycake, Indian Pudding, maple butternut cake, cider, nuts, cheeses, will be served.

An afternoon stroll around the green, dropping in at historical homes and shops and stores with their demonstrations of old-time skill and crafts, will precede a 4:15 p. m. vesper service at the meetinghouse.

After services a square dance is planned for visitors from 5:30 until 8 p. m. at the Lincoln House. Inquiries at the Massachusetts Department of Commerce reveal an evergrowing number of out-of-staters who plan their vacations so that they may take in the annual traditional Thanksgiving celebration in the old Bay State.

Today's Recipes

Here is a recipe for old-fashioned pork cake received from Mrs. Frank Dawson of Escanaba, in answer to a recent request.

Pork Cake

Put 1 pound salt pork through meat chopper and pour over it two cups boiling water. Let stand in pan 20 minutes.

In mixing bowl put:
1 cup molasses
2 large cups brown sugar
1/3 cup hot water in which 2 teaspoons soda have been dissolved
Add pork to this and 1/4 pound currants, 1 pound raisins, 1 teaspoon each nutmeg, cloves and cinnamon. Add salt and allspice and enough flour, about 4 cups, to make a very stiff batter with 1 teaspoon baking powder. Bake 1 hour in slow oven. Tastes and keeps like fruit cake. This recipe makes four loaves.

You'll have no trouble with beef liver "curling" if you'll be sure to remove the skin from the edge of the slices before you put them into the skillet.

Rev. Samuelson, who has been here for almost three years, will conduct his farewell service here on Sunday, Dec. 12.

Graham Film At Gym Saturday

"London Crusade," an hour-long documentary of the three-month campaign held by Evangelist Billy Graham, will be shown here at 7:30 Saturday night in the high school gym.

Doors to the gym will open at 6:45. All seats are on a "first come basis" with no admission charge. Bringing and showing the film is the Rev. James Selander, Muskegon. Sponsoring the showing is the Delta County Youth for Christ group.

Filed entirely in England, "London Crusade," is Britain's own story of the three-month Billy Graham campaign. Narrated by the Bishop of Barking, a respected leader of the Anglican Church, the saga is a complete, gripping portrayal of the events as they transpired.

Beginning with scenes of the Graham's arrival at Waterloo Station, the film moves on to the opening night at Farringway Arena. It then covers the entire series of history-making services, concluding with the great White City and Wembley Stadium meetings, where a total of 200,000 gathered for the closing rallies of the Crusade.

Buckeyes Have Everything At Stake Against Michigan

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO (AP)—Ohio State will have everything at stake Saturday in its nationally-televised football showdown with bitter rival Michigan, loser to the Buckeyes only once in the last 10 years.

A victory would give Ohio State: 1—The first unbeaten-untied season in the Big Ten since Michigan accomplished the feat in 1948. 2—The undisputed conference title. 3—The Rose Bowl trip. 4—In all probability the mythical national championship.

Michigan can share the Big Ten title by upsetting the Buckeyes. In this case, conference athletic directors would have to vote for the Rose Bowl representative.

Favor Buckeyes
Their vote, to be announced by commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson Sunday afternoon, would be a mere formality if Ohio State wins.

Odds-makers favor Ohio State by 12 or 13 points in the game at Columbus, but some observers aren't so sure.

One Big Ten coach said: "Wisconsin used one single wing play against Ohio State and gained 13 yards. The single wing Michigan mixes with the T may give Ohio State trouble."

Up And Down
This type of attack reached its peak when Michigan spilled Minnesota 34-0 a month ago. But the next week the unpredictable Wolverines lost 13-7 to Indiana, their only Big Ten defeat thus far. Michigan also was trimmed 26-7 by Army in its second start of the season.

Probably tougher to predict than the Ohio State-Michigan battle are other finale games on the Big Ten

Writers Meet To Select All-State
LANSING (AP)—The meeting of Michigan newspapers to select the 1954 All-State High School football team was held Thursday at the Lansing State Journal.

Teams were picked in three classes—A, B, and C-D-E. They will be announced Dec. 1, 2 and 3.

Attending the meeting from the Upper Peninsula was Jim Trethewey, Marquette Mining Journal.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP)—There was talk just the other day of hiking the membership of the American League to 10 teams. This turns out to have been the wildest kind of rumor mongering. What the men who hold the fortunes of the younger circuit dear to their hearts really had in mind was to reduce their roster to seven clubs.

This is the only conclusion we have been able to reach after digesting the remarkable deal which deprives the Baltimore Orioles of practically all their big league athletes and transfers them to the New York Yankees, so that the Yankees will not face the ignominy of finishing second again next season.

Yanks Gave Nothing
If the reader should gather from the foregoing that this corner thinks Paul Richards, Baltimore's new general manager and guiding genius, was given a fast shuffle by George Weiss, the one-man brain trust of the Yankees, he is getting warm. The feeling here, actually, is one of incredulity.

Holy Name, Escanaba Cage Teams Eye 1954-55 Opener

John Berrigan Sprains Ankle

An injury hit one camp while progress at the other was reported "good" as the city's first high school basketball game of the 1954-55 season approaches.

The Holy Name Crusaders will entertain the Escanaba Eskimos in the dedicatory game of the new school's big, 2,000-plus capacity gymnasium on Wednesday night, Nov. 24.

The injury came last night during a Holy Name workout when John Berrigan, high scoring junior, suffered a sprained ankle while coming down from a rebound leap. The painful injury will not likely keep Berrigan out of action in the opener although it may handicap his playing.

New Cage Coach
Escanaba coach Jim Betchek, making his debut with the Eskimos this season, reported this morning that his campers are "coming along good." Escanaba recently held a practice scrimmage session with the Rapid River Rockets, powerhouse in the U. P. Central League.

Leading candidates for the starting positions on the Eskymo squad include Bill Bolm, Bob Bero, Tom Hogan, John Dulek, Mike Heminger, Jack Carlson, Ted Anspaugh, Lawrence Sauve and Ricky Erickson. Also in the running are Bob DeMars, Dick Ducharme, Tom O'Brien and Oliver Swanson.

The Eskimos this season are inexperienced (seven lettermen lost from last year) and lack of real height. Sauve goes over six-feet but does not have the experience as yet. The remainder of the squad averages around 5-10.

Had Head Injury
Erickson has been working out with the squad and will be eligible to compete in the opener. He suffered a head injury early in football and was required to remain out of competition for 90 days.

If Berrigan's ankle injury proves serious it may be a severe blow to Holy Name's hopes. Berrigan broke into the St. Joe lineup as a sophomore last year and developed into a deadly shot by the end of the season.

Coach Tom St. Germain's Crusaders held a practice scrimmage last week against the Perkins team

Omaha Back Is Offense Leader

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Engelhardt of Omaha University has virtually clinched the small-college total offense championship and College of Emporia has an equally firm grip on team honors in rushing and total offense.

Statistics released by the NCAA Service Bureau statistics today reveal Engelhardt gained 277 yards in his final game against Doane to move well out in front in total offense with 1,645 yards. Ralph Capitani of Iowa Teachers, who also has finished his season, is second with 1,568 yards. Capitani was last season's total offense leader with 1,755 yards.

Billy Pappas of New Hampshire, who trailed Capitani by seven completions last week, connected on 18 of 36 against Springfield to move in front with 84 completions to 81 for the Iowa senior.

Three players finished the season scoring 100 or more points: Podoley 109, Harkey 103 and Harvey Wylie of Montana State, 100. R. C. Owens of College of Idaho remained in front for pass receiving laurels with 44 receptions. Dick Beetsch of Iowa Teachers is runner-up with 40 and leads in touchdown catches with 11.

Iowa Teachers ended its campaign with a leading passing offense of 206.1 yards per game.

Pacific Coast League Head Hired By Cubs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Pacific Coast League must pick a new president to succeed Clarence L. (Pants) Rowland.

The 75-year-old official resigned Thursday to become executive vice president of the Chicago Cubs.

Rowland's resignation came as no surprise, since it was known that Phil Wrigley, president of the Cub organization, had offered Rowland the executive job.

Wrigley said in Chicago that Rowland's new job would be to do "anything he can put his shoulder to . . . I would think he would be utilized to plug our weakest spot—the team."

Rowland brushed aside a question whether he plans to clean house in the Cub organization, saying: "I haven't even joined the organization yet, and I won't until the PCL directors pick another president."

Wolverines Crippled For Ohio State Game

By JOHN BARBOUR
ANN ARBOR (AP)—Michigan Coach Bennie Oosterbaan, his mind on the miracles of youth, packed his sophomore-heavy football team abroad a plane today and dreamed of Christmas holidays in sunny California.

The plane sets the team down in Columbus, Ohio, about dinner time. There, the Wolverines will wait out about 20 hours until game time.

The Wolverines, rising from obscurity of the legs of eight surprising sophomores, are a two-touchdown underdog to Ohio State tomorrow in the nationally televised photo finish of the Big Ten season.

The Big Ten title and a trip to the Rose Bowl hinges on the ability of the Michigan team, minus its first string center, Jim Bates, right halfback Tony Branoff and rightend Jerry Williams, at the St. Joe gym.

Squad Cut To 12
The Crusader squad was cut to 12 this week, leaving seniors Jim Greenwood, Bill Lancour and Jim Weber; juniors Berrigan, Arnold Henriksen, Mike Venne, Joe Juelten, John Vadhais, Denis McGinn, Gary Paler and Dan Rousseau, and sophomore Gary Hirn, who will become eligible the second semester.

Holy Name faces the same problems that confront Escanaba this season. The Crusaders are minus seven lettermen from last year's St. Joe team and do not have over-all height.

Holy Name school officials anticipate no trouble in accommodating all the fans of the area who want to attend the dedicatory game. They have put 2,000 tickets on a reserved basis, to be sold in advance of the game.

Ticket Arrangements
Of that total, 1,000 will be reserved for adults and will go on sale Monday at Holy Name and Escanaba High School. No telephone orders will be accepted.

Richards Feels Trade Helped

BALTIMORE (AP)—"I think we can now be automatically considered first-division challengers."

That's confident Paul Richards' appraisal of the million-dollar trade he pulled with the New York Yankees Thursday.

The big deal brought veteran outfielder Gene Woodling, shortstop Willie Miranda and catcher Hal Smith to Baltimore along with pitchers Harry Byrd and Jim McDonald, first baseman-catcher Gus Triandos and three others to be named later.

For these nine Yankees, Richards had to pay dearly—some fans think too dearly—by passing to New York young Bob Turley, fireballing strikeout king of the American League; hard-luck pitcher Don Larsen; and colorful Billy Hunter, who made the near impossible plays at shortstop but missed the easy ones.

Richards, who admitted it was "tough . . . to trade off a guy like Turley, who could be a great pitcher," said there was no way of improving the Orioles without putting the 24-year-old speedball pitcher in the deal.

"Frankly, you're not going to win the pennant with one ballplayer like Turley."

He said acquisition of the Yankee sixsome "might put us two years ahead on our farm system." He thinks the trade already gives him a better team than the one that finished seventh with 100 defeats this year.

Warriors Give Up First Place Spot

(By The Associated Press)
The Philadelphia Warriors, relinquished first place in the National Basketball Assn.'s eastern division to New York by a 96-94 loss to the Knicks Thursday night.

In the only other game, the second of a doubleheader, the Syracuse Nationals handed the Fort Wayne Pistons their second loss of the season, 91-82.

The Knicks came from an 82-77 deficit in the last quarter to take the lead at 90-89. Just before the game ended, the Warriors missed four scoring chances. The loss dropped the Warriors to fourth place.

Both defeats for the western division-leading Pistons have been at the hands of the Nats. Larry Foust poured in 30 points for Fort Wayne but six Syracuse players were in double figures, topped by Earl Lloyd, 22, and Johnny Kerr, 19.

Kansas City Okays Baseball Stadium

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The City Council put its formal o.k. on a stadium for the new Kansas City Athletics Thursday night.

It adopted a resolution expressing the city's intent to buy and enlarge the old Blues Stadium. Chicago businessman Arnold Johnson, who acquired the American League Athletics from Philadelphia last week, owns the Stadium.

The city agreed to buy it from him and then lease it to the Athletics. Johnson will get $650,000. The city expects to spend $2,110,000 more enlarging the seating capacity from 16,000 to 36,000.

Tallest man on Ohio State's football team is 6-4 Jack Verhoff, a 15-year-old tackle.

New Addition Being Built At Highland

An extensive addition to the club house at the Highland Golf Club is currently underway, it was announced today by George Walter, club president.

The addition, being built on the north side of the present club house, will cost an estimated $15,000. The foundation has been constructed and the building proper is being put up.

The new section will include a locker room for women, a larger locker room for men, a storage room and heating plant and an addition to the lounge and dining room.

Construction of the new portion will considerably enlarge the present building. The exterior will be of brick and lannon stone with large picture windows facing highway US-2.

In addition to the work at the club, Walter announced that the enlarging of the No. 1 green is nearly complete.

Club members are assisting in the interior finishing work on the new addition. Work bees are being held Tuesday evenings and Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Bowl Bids Hinging On Outcome Of Weekend College Grid Games

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
(By The Associated Press)

Several crucial gridiron tests, with possible bowl bids hinging on their outcomes, and a batch of tradition-studded games are on Saturday's football schedule.

The Big Ten representative to the Rose Bowl will be determined when undefeated Ohio State, the nation's top-ranked team, clashes with Michigan at Columbus before a sellout 82,000 and a national television audience (ABC).

An Ohio State victory would give the Buckeyes the Big Ten crown and the trip to Pasadena New Year's day. If Michigan wins, the two teams end up with identical 6-1 league records and a conference vote would have to be taken to decide the Rose Bowl entry.

Not Eligible
In the Far West, UCLA, also unbeaten and No. 2 in the rankings, faces Southern California. UCLA competed in the Rose Bowl last season and isn't eligible to return this Jan. 1. Regardless of the outcome of Saturday's game, USC gets the nod as the Pacific Coast entrant.

Other top-flight games which will have a direct bearing on Jan. 1 pairings include Baylor and Southern Methodist at Dallas, Nebraska and Oklahoma at Norman, Okla., Kansas State and Colorado at Boulder, Colo., South Carolina and Duke at Durham, N. C., and George Washington and Maryland at College Park, Md.

Southern Methodist has the inside track on the Southwest Conference crown and the Cotton Bowl host on New Year's Day. The Mustangs, fresh off their upset of Arkansas last week, need to trip only Baylor this Saturday and then Texas Christian the following week to wrap up Southwest honors.

Orange Bowlers
The Nebraska-Oklahoma and Kansas State-Colorado meetings could go a long way toward determining the Big Seven titlist and the Orange Bowl designation that goes with it.

Oklahoma, the third major undefeated team and No. 3 in the Associated Press listings, currently leads the Big Seven standings. The Sooners, however, competed in the Miami classic last Jan. 1 and by a league rule they are ineligible to return two years in a row. The runner-up thus gains the bid.

If Kansas State beats Colorado while Oklahoma disposes of Nebraska, both Kansas State and Nebraska would finish with 4-2 league marks. Kansas State would then be accorded the Orange Bowl selection because the Wildcats turned back the Cornhuskers earlier in the season.

Maryland and Duke are unbeaten in the Atlantic Conference and expect to remain that way after Saturday's activity. The GW-Maryland game is not a conference affair, but a setback might eliminate the Terrapins from Orange Bowl consideration.

The ACC representative for the Miami jaunt will be determined by a league committee after Maryland meets Missouri and Duke plays North Carolina next week. The Terrapins were selected last year.

Notre Dame, No. 4, visits Iowa in a game that should produce its share of interest. Neither club is bowl-bound, but Iowa still is incensed over last season's 14-14 tie. Two Notre Dame injury-feigning incidents developed into a first-class rhubarb.

Harvard entertains Yale in the 71st renewal of these Ivy League foes, the East's top game of the day.

Tonight's schedule is meager, with Alabama facing Miami in the major attraction.

GAD-ZOOKS! Who would believe that I could take one of the toughest weekend schedules in the nation's football frenzy and pick 20 of 25 winners throughout college-land. Yet, that is exactly what I did last weekend. Drat that Harvard-Brown tie that prevented me from reaching even greater heights.

But that is history, gentle readers. Now I am looking forward to this big weekend as the 1954 season nears a close. You probably want to know in advance how that Big Ten finale between Ohio State and Michigan will come out. Michigan is not in the ball game, HAR-RUMPH! Cassidy and Watkins will gallop hard at the scent of those Pasadena roses.

Herewith is my list of winners for this weekend. Read on for the results of intense scientific study which includes the hypothesis of the tattle-tale over the umbrabill divided by the screeberscribe!

Prince Has Matchmakers Busy

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
(NEA Staff Correspondent)

MONACO—(NEA)—Rainer II, Prince of Monaco, has all the qualities romantic women expect of a Prince Charming. Thirtyish, intelligent and handsome, a dandy, a sportsman and a splendid dancer, he reigns over a pocket-sized kingdom which throughout history always has had more romance and adventure packed into its eight square miles than any empire on which the sun never sets.

But the 19,200 subjects of the young Prince, like the Belgians, are beginning to think it is time their attractive ruler should marry.

They were extremely disappointed when he refused the invitation to join the recent "Blue-blood Cruise" organized by Queen Frederica of Greece. They knew there were a score of attractive princesses abroad of marriageable age.

Instead, Rainer set off on a three-month "all men" deep-sea fishing expedition on his 360-ton yacht, the Deo Juventa II. He also went to Africa to collect rare animals for the private zoo he is installing in his villa on the French Riviera.

Rainer is reported to have declared to one of his entourage: "I suppose I shall have to make up my mind to marry some day. One thing is certain, however—I shall only marry a girl I love."

This is all too vague for the Monegasques. What worries them is that if Rainer should abdicate or die without an heir, the principality of Monaco would revert back to France. The treaty of 1918 stipulates very clearly that Monaco, under the protection of France, would become an autonomous state.

Natives of Monaco realize it would be merely a question of time before they lost their many advantages, the most important being freedom from taxes and national service.

There is also the nostalgic privilege of belonging to one of the last European monarchies, "defended," in this atomic age, by a small "musical comedy" army. They are also very proud of the fact that the principality issues its own postage stamps and flies its own flag.

Although the principality is the smallest of the European states, its princes represent one of the oldest aristocratic families. It was in 1297 that the first Grimaldi occupied the throne of Monaco and his descendants have in the last 657 years accumulated many titles. The present Prince has a right to four dukedoms, as many as 129, besides several baronies. He is known, nevertheless, for his democratic ideas.

INSTEAD OF A BRIDE, Prince Rainier of Monaco had three chimpanzees in his arms when he arrived home from cruise. He also sprouted a healthy beard. But unimpressed subjects still want him to get married.

Officially, Rainer lives in a huge "baroque" palace with the Alps as a backdrop and the blue Mediterranean at its feet, surrounded by luxurious gardens, with orange and lemon groves, palm trees and brilliant with flowers, summer and winter.

Monaco also boasts of a cathedral and an important oceanographic museum, but is best-known throughout the world for Monte Carlo and its famous gambling casino.

The population of 12,000 depends largely on the existence of the casino for a living. There are great projects afoot to make the resort available to the vast multitude of "paid vacationers"—but that is another story.

"Rainer has been reported 'engaged' I should think about 14 times," said a friend. "These fiancées are the same who figure on the list of possible wives for Baudoin of Belgium."

His romance with pretty and talented actress Gisele Pascal was common knowledge. It began six years ago when Gisele appeared at a theater in Monte Carlo. Then a few months back it was reported that they had parted. Reason: the handsome couple could not count on producing an heir and so the Prince's Counselors respectfully suggested that he give up Gisele.

This decision was apparently one of the reasons for the deep-sea fishing cruise.

The European marriage market brokers had finally narrowed the choice of a wife for Rainer down to two "eligibles"—Maria-Pilar of Spain and Isabella of France.

But recently a third name was mentioned—Signorina Pacelli, daughter of Prince Marc-Antony Pacelli, nephew of Pope Pius and an officer in His Holiness' Noble Guards.

Should Rainer decide to give up the freedom of bachelorhood for marriage, the person whom it is said will have been responsible for this decision is the Prince's "grey eminence" Father Francis Tuquer.

Canine Died From Heart Failure

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP)—A dog collapsed and died after running up three flights of stairs in an apartment house here, Dr. Richard T. Gilyard, veterinarian, said the animal's death was due to heart failure.

Contribution Was Well Earmarked

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—The note with the five cents which Bob Shroobee, treasurer of La Jolla's First Baptist Church, found in the collection plate read: "1 cent to bldg. fund, 1 cent to preacher, 3 cents to God. (Signed) Bobby."

STRANGE BIRD

The hoatzin, a tropical American bird, has a Comanche tuft of headfeathers, eyelashes like a movie actress, and well-developed claws on each wing. It can climb trees with these claws long before it can fly and an objectionable musty odor it emits to dispel its natural enemies has earned it the name of "stinking pleasant."

Will Leaving $400,000 For Birds And Beasts Contested In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—A woman's final whim, leaving some $400,000 for the benefit of birds and animals because they gave her "comfort and solace," faces a possible court test.

Circuit Judge Paul H. Miner will decide on Nov. 23 whether a contest action on the will of Mrs. Theresa Study Porter, a wealthy Evanston, Ill., recluse who died Sept. 12, 1953, should be tried.

The contest of the 72-year-old woman's will was filed by Attorneys Eul A. Epton of Chicago and Fred M. Stults Jr., of Gary, Ind., on behalf of five aged first cousins of Mrs. Porter.

The plaintiffs are Mary Alice Yelvington, 100, Gary, Ella Eliason, 86, and Elizabeth Cranor, 95, Muncie, Ind.; Mary J. Boden, 87, Cambridge City, Ind., and Grace Miller Fleischer, 85, Berkeley, Calif. A sixth cousin, Guy Study of St. Louis, is named as one of the defendants.

The contest complaint included a contention that Mrs. Porter was "of unsound mind and memory" when the will was made.

The principal defendant of the suit is the Northern Trust Co. of Chicago, designated in the complaint only as Mrs. Porter's executor.

One of the principal objections to the suit raised by the bank's attorney, Franklin Bliss Snyder Jr., is the technical one that failure to designate the company as trustee of the estate.

The bulk of the estate, under the will, would be set aside as a trust fund to provide $20,000 a year for four agencies: the National Audubon Society, New York; Orphans Of The Storm, a dog refuge at Deerfield, Ill., established by Irene Castle McLaughlin Enzinger; the Anti-Cruelty Society of Chicago, and the North Side Animal Shelter of Chicago.

Contract Bridge

By Josephine Culbertson

A WELL-ROUNDED PERFORMANCE

South deserved two good marks in the following case: he selected the right grand-slam contract (instead of the contract that probably would be chosen by most players), and he overcame extraordinary suit breaks with the correct play.

The bidding:

came clear. Moreover, the picture was rather dark for South, because even if the diamonds came in solidly, only 12 top tricks were in sight.

There was only one chance. South cashed his second club trick and the ace of hearts, then started to run diamonds. To his disgust, the diamonds also failed to break—but he wasn't as unhappy as West was!

West soon felt the pinch of discarding. He had to keep a high club against dummy's nine and the heart king against dummy's queen. But if he kept those cards, West would have to surrender a spade—and that would let South run off his entire spade suit. Knowing when he was beaten, West ruefully acknowledged the fact.

Meat-Hungry Killer Bumps Off Alfalfa

By ROBERT E. VOGES
ST. HENEN, Mich. (AP)—Alfalfa, the deer, is missing and presumed dead—victim of a meat-hungry murderer.

What happened to Alfalfa is as nasty a bit of business as you're likely to find in the annals of crimes against animals.

The big, 200-pound, eight point buck was the prize exhibit at the Ogemaw Game Refuge, north of St. Helen.

The conservation people learned a lot about deer from studying his feeding habits. Alfalfa had been around for four or five years and was one of the main attractions for visitors.

Paces For Pictures
He was a particular favorite with the children. Although it was admitted he could be ornery at times, Alfalfa would trot over the edge of his pen to accept cigarettes and other dainties from his admirers.

Many of the deer pictures used in conservation magazines and other publications featured Alfalfa and he became quite a ham as far as photographers were concerned.

The evidence shows that Alfalfa was killed last Saturday night—the 13th.

So the crime was committed while honest hunters were on their way north preparing for the opening of the deer season.

Hole Under Wire
Just before he went to bed that night, Lawrence Ryle, manager of the game refuge, strolled by the pen and noted that the big deer was hale and hearty.

Ryle, who lives only about 250 yards away, heard no disturbances or gun shots during the night. In the morning, Alfalfa was gone.

The fence was deer-proof, so the big buck couldn't have jumped it and escaped. Investigators discovered a hole had been dug under the wire that was large enough so his 200-pound carcass could have been dragged out.

Last year, someone tried to cut the wire at the same point in the fence but was scared away before the job could be finished.

Police are studying footprints and tire marks found in the vicinity. They'd like to catch whoever killed Alfalfa and throw the book at him.

Meanwhile, they have a message for the person who only admired Alfalfa as a prospective hunk of venison. They hope you choke.

Some People Are Hard To Convince

MACKINAW CITY, Mich. (AP)—Mrs. Agnes Johnson, who works in a tourist information booth here, will be happy when the Straits of Mackinac bridge is completed in 1957.

Mrs. Johnson has been running into people for years who try to prove to her there already is a bridge across the straits. One woman claimed proof positive the bridge existed. She produced a post card with a picture of the bridge on it. The picture was an artist's drawing of how the bridge would look after it is completed.
